Trillions Count.
Governor Smith's Good Nerves.

PROF. ALBERT A. MICHELSON, of Chicago University, Nobel prize winner, and greatest living physicist, has concluded experiments at Pasadena, confirming his findings as to the speed of light. The speed, inconceivable to our minds, is 186,284 miles a second. Some ask, why bother about a few miles, in a speed like that? The matter is very important to science.

ONE of the so-called "outside universes" is one million light years away from our little earth, which revolves in a cosmic city called the Milky Way. One million light years is the distance that light can travel in one million years.

At that distance, a difference in speed of one mile to the second would mean a difference of thirty-one trillion, five hundred and thirty-six billion miles, enough difference, even in astronomy.

Some day, a more highly developed race, able to think in trillions and in the fourth dimension, may want to know just how far away that other universe is. We may all go there some day, "In My Father's house are many mansions."

GOV. SMITH is entitled to credit for keeping his nerves under control, speaking at Oklahoma City, on Thursday. The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, who has attacked Gov. Smith from his pulpit, sat on the platform close to Gov. Smith and nearby sat the head of the Oklahoma Ku Klux Klan, whom Gov. Smith was to attack that evening.

The audience expected the clergyman, or the Ku Klux chief to interrupt and ask questions. Two rival politicians made welcoming speeches, one of them, Gov. Johnston, of Oklahoma, formerly a lecturer for the Klan. Those that thought they noticed a slight nervousness in the governor's radio talk need not be surprised.

VERY old men give various recipes for long life. Some urge moderation, in everything, eating, drinking. Some say, "Don't worry." Luigi Cornaro had a sound theory, and demonstrated it, living past 100, after being given up by doctors as a young man. Read his life.

Zaro Agha, aged 157, oldest man in Turkey, offers a suggestion quite new: "I don't smoke, I don't drink, I married four wives." He considers four wives a part of his general moderation.

New conditions worry poor old Mr. Agha. Kemal Pasha, the new ruler, compels him to cut a mustuche and beard that have been growing more than a century.

Three of his wives have died, two of old age. He has only one left, rather weak, and Kemal Pasha will not let him have more than one. Turkey is going to the dogs, and he fears he will not live much longer.

B. C. FORBES quotes a clergyman who thinks it disgraceful to emphasize the full dinner pail and general prosperity in a political campaign, on the ground that our minds should be on loftier things. Possibly, but it's hard to keep the mind on lofty things, when you're hungry.

All agree that government should guarantee life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Pursuing happiness, in this age, without money, is like entering a marathon race with a ball and chain fastened to your leg.

GOVERNMENTS are established first to protect the people, second to make them happy. Therefore, prosperity is the big issue in every campaign.

There are mixed questions in this, of which one, religion, should be kept out of every campaign. But the big issue is PROSPERITY, the full pocketbook plus the full dinner pail.

If Democrats can convince the people that they will increase prosperity, the Republicans will go. If not, they will stay. Not very lofty, perhaps, but FACT.

"MEN have died, and worms have eaten them, but not for love."

Tony Peri, circus clown, 61 years old, killed himself, jumping from a roof, seven stories high. He and his wife working together in the circus, earned $300 a week. But she ran away with a banjo player.

Before he jumped, however, Peri had lost his job as clown. A woman would have cared nothing about the job. Shakespeare was right.

Worms rarely get men dead for love. But with women, love is back of nearly all suicides.

Men die for money, as they love for money. Women live and die for love. They are less practical.

MR. SCARFACE AL CAPONE, whom many gunmen would gladly shoot, has finally shot himself, by accident, so the story goes. He lies in a hospital, with bullet wound in his leg, arm and groin, explaining that a gun he carried was fired accidentally.

Gunmen, like wolves, have no mercy for the wounded, and Capone, at the hospital, reserves six rooms. He occupies one. In the others, 15 protecting gunmen take turns watching over Capone's safety.

Bootleg money is supposed to pay for all this, and bootleg money would buy Capone's death, if he were less cautious.

THERE are 562 millionaires in all Great Britain. There are more than twice that number in one New York street, Wall Street, more than 562 millionaires in one Wall Street building, the Stock Exchange. Many individual states in this country excel Great Britain in number of millionaires. We are prosperous.

Despite gloomy weather the airmen will hop off on scheduled time, it was indicated at the municipal airport here.

Robert Dake, Pittsburgh, was the first pilot into port yesterday. Others were:

T. W. Kenyon, Detroit.
George W. Hopkins, Detroit.
James S. Charles, Richmond.
S. J. Wittman, Fon du Lac, Wis.
A. H. Kreider, Hagerstown, Md.
Ralph Haines, Elmira, N. Y.

Samuel Turner, Alexandria, Va., was forced down near Pecos on account of running out of gasoline. W. H. Emery, Bradford, Pa., was forced to land near Sweetwater on account of engine trouble. A failing engine also forced H. W. Myers, Los Angeles, to land near Midland. Eugene Detmer, Tarrytown, N. Y., was forced to get out of the race at El Paso due to damages to his plane in landing.

GIANTS, CARDINALS SET FOR CRUCIAL GAME

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—This will be do or don't day at the Polo Grounds, with the winning and losing of the 1928 National League pennant practically vested in the result of a single ball game between the St. Louis Cardinals, leading by two games with only nine to play, and the New York Giants.

It will be the key contest of the campaign, since a victory for the Giants will leave them only one game in arrears and a defeat will eliminate them almost beyond the peradventure of the mathecatical "if," without which no statistician really can "stat" or "tish" except haphazardly and without confidence.

In other words, they do or they don't this afternoon, and the Giants knowing that, in their case, "don't mean's won't, will stake their all on the performance of Fred Fitzsimmons, perhaps the best pinch hitter with the outfit. The Cards, knowing that don't will mean further doubt for them, will counter with Clarence Mitchell, the only left-hander in existence who pitches with his salivary gland. If Clarence can't do it, then the Cards will almost have to concede that it isn't in them.

WEATHER COOL

Clear and cooler was the weather forecast for this great moment of a great campaign and, with the memory before them of the Giants' rabbit-out-of-the-hat victory in the second game on Thursday, the turnstiles will be in for a terrible beat-

Rail Wreck Ties Up Trolleys

Street car traffic in Second avenue was tied up early today when an empty freight car in a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad train buckled near the Greenfield avenue crossing.

A broken air line is believed to have caused the wrecking of the empty car, in the center of the freight train. On account of the location of the accident, traffic in Second avenue was blocked by wrecking crews, summoned to remove the damaged freight car. Traffic was resumed at 7 o'clock.

Attacked As Hoey Spy

The political warfare between Mayor Kline and John J. Verona, boss of the Third Ward, was blamed for an attack early today on a uniformed policeman by four men in the Hill district.

Patrolman John R. Dillingham reported to his superiors that he was walking to his home at 13 Green street after going off duty when, at Our alley and Logan street, four men dragged him into the alley, stripped him of his gun and mace and beat him unconscious.

"You're one of those spies for Hoey, you s——," Dillingham said one of the gangsters cried.

It was Inspector James M. Hoey, a political follower of "Jimmy" Coyne, whose raiding activities in the Hill district precipitated the break between Verona and Kline.

Pirates in 2 Games Today

BY CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—A double header here this afternoon will close the Pirates' book for the season with the Phillies. It will also, incidentally, give Burleigh Grimes a chance to ease in with his twenty-fifth victory; and the Duke, without question, will most likely bear down.

Yesterday the Bucs advanced a full game on the third-place Cubs, but there is little hope of the Oaklanders overtaking the Chicagoans at this stage of the game and still trailing by four full games. The Freebooters had to step on the gas all of the way to cop their 6-to-5 decision.

Grimes will likely work the first game this afternoon for the Bushwhackers, while Ervine Brame is scheduled for the second encounter. Manager Shotton is expected to rely on a pair of rookie flingers, Earl Caldwell and Jack Milligan, the latter a southpaw, in order to give some of his new players a chance to perform.

Fred Fussell is too ill to take his turn on the mound for the Pirates, he having been taken with the grippe shortly after reaching this city.

PUBLIC DISREGARDED IN BUS MONOPOLY

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company and its subsidiary, the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, guard their monopoly of the transportation field in this city with constant vigilance. Two months ago Sauers Brothers, who operate a bus line from Moon Run over the Steubenville pike to the end of the car line at Ingram, appeared before the Public Service Commission for permission to extend their service into the Golden Triangle.

They had been charging a 15-cent fare, and proposed to increase the rate to 25 cents in return for extending the distance covered by the route. This would have been only a slight increase over the combined bus and street car fare paid by the passengers and would have given them faster service by eliminating the transfer at Ingram.

About 100 witnesses, most of whom were residents of the communities between Moon Run and Ingram, who use the line, appeared at the hearing. Representatives of the Pittsburgh Railways Company also appeared, and under the claim that the company was giving the district adequate service, convinced the commission that the petition should be denied.

Frank T. Trohaugh, a resident of the district served and a real estate operator, points out that the development of property along the Steubenville pike has been retarded by the inconvenience and loss of time through two separate transportation systems.

Pestilence Stalks in Florida

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Disease and rising of flood waters menaced relief operations in the Florida Everglades today as official estimates of loss of life in last Sunday's hurricane passed the 1,500 mark.

The first outbreak of disease occurred at Clewiston on the southwestern shore of Lake Okeechobee, where many refugees had gathered. Fort Myers sent a doctor, two nurses and three trucks filled with supplies when Chief of Police C. G. Enos, of that city, reported that his relief expedition had discovered 40 cases of influenza.

Gov. John W. Martin who, with other high officials, completed a survey of the Pahokee disaster area on the eastern shore of Lake Okeechobee, was authority for the statement that the whole of the Everglades was flooded.

PROBE UP TO JUDGES

Here's Case Of People Vs. Graft

THESE direct charges have been made against the city administration of Mayor Charles H. Kline by Alderman Verona:

Booze joints and gambling dens are flourishing on the Hill under police protection.

Slot machines are placed with the sanction of the administration.

Kline's administration leaders collected $7,500 a week graft from Al Forney's slot machines.

They collected $5,000 a week from Jakey Klein.

Jimmy Smith paid $500 a week for protection for many months.

Every official in the city's administration knows what is going on, and dives are being protected by the highest officials of the city.

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner had not conferred with county judges up to noon today, but expected to this afternoon, he announced, in the matter of calling a grand jury to investigate police corruption and graft charged to Mayor Charles H. Kline's administration by John J. Verona, rebellious Third Ward leader, police magistrate and alderman.

The District Attorney had hoped to see them this morning, but he attended the induction of Nelson McVicar, his law partner, as Federal judge. When he returned from Federal Court he found the county judges in conference, but said he expected before the day was over to see them.

When asked for his resignation of police magistrate Thursday, Verona refused and in return made formal charges to Mayor Kline that vice flourished under police protection and that some $13,000 was collected weekly as graft.

GARDNER SEEKS JUDGES

Mr. Gardner said yesterday that he tried to see Presiding Judge James B. Drew several times during the day, but had been unable to do so. He intends to see Judge Drew and other members of the court regarding an investigation of Verona's charges. The judges and the district attorney will discuss what course of procedure could be used to bring the proprietors of some 50 alleged liquor and gambling joints under "administration protection" to trial.

After reading the editorial in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, the district attorney said that the "disclosures" made by Verona, "make immediate action imperative." "You may rest assured," he said, "that I am giving the matter my close attention. I am looking up every law dealing with the problem in general and the situation here in particular."

United States government officials also may confer on the same subject, inasmuch as United States Attorney John D. Meyer arrived in the city today from Erie. Meyer was informed Thursday night of the charges hurled by Verona and there is a probability of Verona's being summoned as a witness in the Fed-

WHAT PHILA. PROSECUTOR DID

The outstanding man of the hour in Philadelphia today is the contemporary of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner—John Monaghan, prosecuting attorney for the largest county in Pennsylvania.

GARDNER.

Monaghan found existing the same condition which John J. Verona, Hill district politician, charges applies to Pittsburgh — collusion between racketeer and police. So the district attorney of Allegheny's contemporary struck out! With the support of a Common Pleas Court judge, Edwin O. Lewis, Monaghan told his county detectives and Federal agents loaned to him to find out about Philadelphia's graft. They found out in short order. And Monaghan told the grand jury what they had learned!

Today Monaghan is in the thick of his fight to wipe out the alliance between police and bootlegger—a crusade which is gaining him recognition as Pennsylvania's relentless prosecutor.

MONAGHAN.

Monaghan uncovered a bootleggers' payroll which showed weekly payments to police captains of $75; district detectives, $50; street sergeants, $25. He learned of the presence of 13,000 speakeasies in the Quaker City; bank deposits of bootleggers reaching $10,000,000; the open sale of machine guns, bullet-proof vests and silencers for automatics; the "transfer" of 350,000 gallons of alcohol from government warehouses to bootleg sources; the existence of a "blue book" carried by bootleggers which contained the names of prominent politicians.

Payments to police officials were as high as $25,000 in one instance, this district attorney learned. Officers, he said, actually escorted beer trucks through the city. "An unholy alliance," Monaghan described the mating of police and gangster, and he laid at the police department's doorstep instances of graft, corruption, collusion, bribery and hijacking.

LEWIS.

In this significant paragraph the Philadelphia Record describes the situation:

"The issue is clear cut. It is not, as the Mayor implied in his statement to the police, a question of stopping bootlegging. The real issue is whether the underworld shall control Philadelphia as it controls Chicago."

SMITH LEADS IN ERIE VOTE

Voters of Erie are now sending in ballots in the straw vote poll of Pennsylvania conducted by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. First returns from the Lake Erie stretch of the state show that Gov. Alfred E. Smith will have strong support in that sector.

The Democratic candidate wins in the initial batch of ballots from Erie, which give him 182 votes and Herbert Hoover 160. Political observers have predicted that Smith will find many supporters in Erie.

Hoover won the day on the total of returns. The volume of ballots mailed from nearly 40 counties of the state gave him a 2-to-1 lead over Smith for the day.

The totals for the day are 1,455 for Hoover and 713 for Smith.

The bulk of the Hoover vote was recorded from counties which are almost entirely rural, with few urban communities.

The totals to date in the Pennsylvania poll, conducted in connection with the canvass of the United States by the Hearst papers, are: Hoover 23,184, including 17,096 men and 6,088 women; Smith 15,981, including 11,261 men and 4,720 women.

These voters in 1924 voted as follows: Coolidge 27,724, including 20,302 men and 7,422 women; Davis 3,724, including 2,997 men and 727 women; LaFollette 2,618.

JAWORSKI, BETTER, MAY LIVE FOR TRIAL

BANDIT IMPROVES IN CLEVELAND HOSPITAL

International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 22.—Though believed near death repeatedly within the last few days, Paul Jaworski, notorious Pittsburgh and Detroit gunman, who was shot down and captured here last week after he had killed a policeman, was reported improved at City Hospital today.

Physicians say he yet may recover sufficiently to stand trial for first degree murder, October 22.

Questioned yesterday by Prosecutor Robert M. Toms, of Wayne county, Michigan, Jaworski again confessed that he participated in the Detroit News payroll holdup last June. He has alternately admitted and denied participation in this robbery since his arrest.

His 19-year-old wife, Margaret, was permitted to visit him late yesterday. He was also allowed to see his 10-month-old baby daughter.

Reports reached police here today that four men and a woman, believed to have been former members of the notorious "Flathead Gang" of which Jaworski was once the leader, had been arrested in Weirton, W. Va., in connection with a holdup at New Cumberland, W. Va. The "Flathead Gang" perpetrated a series of famous robberies in Western Pennsylvania.

PAL IS ARRESTED

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Alex Rzewski, 33, alleged member of the "Flathead Gang" of holdup men headed by Paul Jaworski, was arrested here last night on a technical charge of murder in connection with the operations of the gang.

Rzewski, found living in a house formerly occupied by Jaworski, was arrested by police who yesterday questioned the latter, who is in a critical condition in a Cleveland hospital.

Although police declined to reveal the nature of evidence upon which the arrest was based, it was believed to have linked Rzewski with the Detroit News holdup in which Patrolman George Barstad was shot to death.

A FAMILY AFOUL OF THE LAW!

FOURTH

When Mary Narr—alias Kitty Gilbert!—fell into the hands of the law, she established a record for her family. There are four of them well-known to Pittsburgh police now that Mary is today in jail awaiting the court's disposition of the "Boulevard Mob," held as safecrackers most modern, with which she was arrested.

OLDEST

Joseph Narr—that's not the family's real name—is the oldest. He's serving from two to four years at Rockview for larceny. In 1923, at 18, he first made his appearance to the police world.

JOSEPHINE NARR

MORGANZA

Today, Josephine Narr, known as the "Queen of the Night Riders," is in Morganza, sent there last December after she was arrested as the decoy of a troublesome band of pillagers. She's only 18.

SAFE-CRACKING!

At 13, Dominick, now only 17, was arrested as a safecracker, probably the youngest ever arrested for that offense in this country. He is known as "Kelly the Gunniff"—the underworld's tab that he's one of the worst! He was sent to Huntington Reformatory a year ago.

PENNANT AT STAKE TODAY

ing. It is expected that the populace will attend almost in a body, exceeding the 55,000 capacity of the park and overflowing into the streets, where they will be able to hear a very good ball game. It is all so unnecessary.

Two days ago, the second game and the pennant were as good as won for the Cardinals and, if this had come to pass, they could have gone out there today and played their game in the cloistered privacy demanded by retired heavyweights, but generosity got the better of them.

"You take the ball game," they said, in effect.

"All right," said the Giants, as one who goes out of his way to do a favor, "we will." And they did.

If McKechnie is looking for a clubhouse motto today, the writer suggests the one about the inadvisability of giving the genus sucker an even break.

So they must start all over again this afternoon the business of doing, or trying to do, what they had already accomplished to all purposes on Tuesday. A victory then would have meant a four-game lead with more than a possibility that by tonight this would have been five. For Mitchell, picked up out of the used parts department for his ability to harass the Giants, can and does achieve this effect at the slightest notice or even less.

The Giants pulled one out of the hat on him in St. Louis during the last series, but there is nothing on the records to indicate that they figure to do it again. Mitchell's left arm has been accorded the week's siesta it usually needs nowadays to be at its best and, with Fitzsimmons nominated on the opposing ticket, everything points to the tidiest pitching of the series, which is saying not too much.

Of course, the Giants are playing two opponents from now on—the Cardinals and the things the gamblers call "percentage." Regardless of what the Cards do after they leave here, the Giants must keep winning to have a chance. If, on a certain day, the Cards and Giants both lose the former will gain. If both win, the result will be much the same. If the Cards should win a game while the Giants are losing another—blooey.

In other words, the Giants are trying to play heads-you-win-tails-I-lose. It sounds impossible, but it isn't altogether so.

LAW CRIES SHAME TO SISTERS AND BROTHERS

The Narr family, through pretty Mary Narr, alias Kitty Gilbert, has broken a record.

For the first time, perhaps, in the annals of the Pittsburgh police bureau, the law has two brothers and two sisters for serious crimes.

Mary, in her early twenties, languishes in jail, awaiting the disposition by the court of her gang, the "Boulevard Mob" that City Detectives William Egan and a squad arrested early Tuesday at 1613 Boulevard of the Allies. They are alleged safe-crackers—the three men arrested with her. They are modernists in the art of blowing safes, detectives say, for they declare they found in their crude rendezvous the finest electrical equipment of drills, torches and safe-cracking equipment they have ever seen.

And Mary is the fourth of the Narr family to come into the hands of the police.

Her equally pretty sister, Josephine, "Queen of the Night Riders," is just 18. As the decoy of the notorious bandits who robbed numerous homes, business houses and pedestrians, she was held with them last December and now is thinking it over in Morganza.

Her sweetheart, Thomas Francis Boyle, and five others are meditating in the penitentiary.

Joseph Narr is the oldest of the four. He is serving between two and four years at Rockview for entering a building and larceny. He was sentenced in 1927—although at the age of 18 he made his first appearance in the police world. In 1923 he was arrested for larceny and acquitted.

But Dominick Narr, just 17, started early. At 13 he was arrested for safe-cracking. At 16 he was sent to Huntington Reformatory for a serious crime.

Narr is not the correct name.

To city detectives, particularly Thomas Flavin, Egan and Thomas "Bozo" Lavery, well acquainted with the Narr record, the marvel is that the four are children of honest parents.

The father, hard working and a man of integrity, deplores their tendencies. Neither shielding them nor assisting them, he faces the insurmountable task of bearing the burden of their shame.

Another incongruity lies in Mary, who told detectives she was the common-law wife of A. J. Gilbert, leader of the "Boulevard Mob." Mixed in with the safe-cracking outfit, the boxes of cigarets, the money taken from their jobs, the other effects that city detectives examined, Detective Egan found a book of transcribed poetry. In it, Mary had written excerpts from Shakespeare, Carolyn Davies, Robert Frost and others.

day. New York will get along as usual.

New York's best poll watchers are workers of the Socialist party. They do not win elections, but they do interfere, effectively, with political trickery. They know their neighborhoods, watch registration, and challenge illegal votes, regardless of any politician's feelings.

Practical politicians will tell you "if it were not for the Socialists watching, we could do almost anything; the worst of it is, it does no good to buy them. They won't stay bought."

FILE CHARGES AGAINST MORE HILL POLICE

Seven more Hill district policemen have been named in informations charging larceny and assault and battery, sworn out yesterday before Alderman John J. Verona. This group makes a total of 15 city police officers who are scheduled to be giving hearings before the Hill district leader next week.

Constables from Verona's office last night left word at the Center Avenue Police Station that charges of entering a building and larceny had been preferred against Lieut. Thomas Gross and Patrolmen John Novak, Peter Kowalski, Joseph Hanna, and Frank Collins and that Patrolmen Florence Watt and Howard Caldwell had been charged with assault and battery. All were ordered to appear for hearings Tuesday noon. No bail was asked.

The larceny charges were made by Mrs. A. E. Mellon and George Finley who reside in the rear of 2163 Bedford avenue. Inspector James Hoey, who inquired into the foundation of the charges, said that Mrs. Mellon is Finley's housekeeper and she charges that a $3,500 diamond ring disappeared from her house during a visit of the police. A report at the police station, Hoey said, shows that the five men visited the house in answer to a call that a shooting had occurred there. They found the place locked and vacant and did not enter, Hoey said.

The charges against Watt and Caldwell are said to have been preferred by Abe Modell. The police inspector was unable to give any history of this case and little information was given out at the alderman's office.

Other police officers who are to be arraigned before Verona are Inspector Hoey, Capt. John Schnurr and Detectives David Corbett, Frank Nowicki, Maurice Kennelly, Robert Burke and William Reese. Corbett is lieutenant of the homicide squad. Hoey, charged with assault and battery, evaded arrest by locking himself in a cell in the police station.

eral grand jury investigation of liquor conspiracies.

Meyer would not indicate whether he proposed to act, but said if he were contemplating any step, he would not discuss it now.

Evidently tipped off that Verona means business, a number of Pittsburgh's booze joints and gambling dens which he charges have been running under police protection are "laying low" for a few days. This was evidenced yesterday and last night when constables from Verona's office visited a number of these places with search warrants only to find "the birds had flown."

Most of those "in the racket" are of the opinion Verona is merely out to show Mayor Kline he is not bluffing. He proved this by holding two alleged proprietors for court under $1,000 each yesterday. That evidently frightened the others who might have had an idea that Verona was fooling, so they locked their doors, hoping the Mayor and Hill "boss" soon will declare a truce.

CHARGES INVASION

Verona, who has been at war with the Police Department for several weeks, has special grievances against the administration and several political leaders in general for an attempt to disrupt his forces on the Hill. He charges that other political leaders are attempting to take control of the Hill district. When his resignation was demanded by the mayor, he made a heated reply which included his charges. Incidentally he declined to resign.

The charges were:

Booze joints and gambling dens are flourishing on the Hill under police protection.

Kline's administration leaders collected $7,500 a week graft from Al Forney's slot machines.

BACKS UP THREAT

Verona made his first move to back up his threat to fight to a finish to keep his power on the hill, when he sent his constables to raid several downtown clubs late yesterday. While his constables were raiding he held for court two men who had been arrested in downtown raids Saturday. One of the places visited yesterday was the Order of Oaks, at 927 Liberty avenue, one of a score of places Constable James McManus, in his recent court report, mentioned as violating the law. McManus is from the office of Alderman George Anderson.

Charles Kelly, alleged proprietor of the club was arrested on a charge of violating the Snyder Act and with maintaining a lottery, and will be given a hearing Tuesday. William Duplex and Abe Roth, alleged heads of a club at 1011 Liberty avenue, also arrested yesterday, and they will be arraigned Tuesday.

FLORIDA SWEPT BY DISEASE

to flood conditions. In an official statement renewing his appeal to all Florida to contribute and speedily to the Everglade refugees, the Governor described flood conditions as follows:

"For a radius of 25 to 30 miles just back of the high ridge of land that separates Lake Okeechobee from the Everglades, the land is completely covered with water. These people are unable to get out or off this ridge of land adjacent to the lake because miles of water which surrounds on both sides and sufficient boats are not available to handle the situation. Connors highway, the only road to this territory is under water for nine miles. The entire Everglades are flooded."

The Governor was moved to tears during his inspection trip yesterday.

The Governor said:

"Today in traveling six miles on the road between Pahokee and Belle Glade (where the hurricane was believed to have exacted its heaviest toll in lives) I counted 27 corpses which had not been taken from the water. The total number of dead lying on the roadside and not yet buried, but in plank coffins, numbered 126. This should be added to the 537 already interred. Fifty-seven additional bodies were hauled out today in trucks and tonight four truck loads of bodies were brought from adjacent areas by boat, loaded, and sent to Palm Beach for burial.

"When the water recedes and the dead are taken from under the debris cast up by the storm, the total number who perished in this disaster, carefully estimated by the most reliable people living in this section, will number at lease 1,500, and bodies are being discovered under the debris and in the water hourly. The area visited by me today does not begin to cover the stricken territory, and I mention these conditions in an appeal to the people of the state of Florida, urging them to respond [illegible] and generously."

SMITH IN COLORADO FOR POWER SPEECH

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service.

GARDEN CITY, Kans., Sept. 22.—En route with Gov. Smith to Denver—emerging from the corn and wheat belt, where tremendous crowds have greeted his every appearance during the first week of his western tour, Gov. Smith swung into Colorado today.

It is one of the Western states on the Smith tour that the Democrats are most hopeful of carrying in November, despite the fact that it has gone approximately 60,000 Republican in the last two national campaigns.

SPEAKS ON POWER

Tonight in Denver, Gov. Smith will deliver the third major speech of his Western swing. It probably will deal with the so-called power trust, with special emphasis laid upon the activities of the public utilities concerns in "poisoning" the public school system against public ownership, as brought out in the congressional investigation still in progress.

Gov. Smith is well pleased with his invasion of the Southwest, which embraced Oklahoma and Kansas. Throughout yesterday and last night his train ran through the wheat belt of Kansas, Arkansas City, Winfield, Wichita, Newton, Hutchinson, St. Johns, Kingsley, Dodge City and Garden City, and everywhere the Democratic nominee was greeted by large throngs.

The outpourings of people in Kansas inspired some of the Kansas leaders who boarded the train to lay claim to the state in the name of the Democratic party. But the sober judgment of nonpartisan observers was that, notwithstanding the crowds that came out to see the Smith special, Kansas is Republican and is likely to remain so in November.

OKLAHOMA TOSS-UP

Oklahoma was said by the same observers to be a toss-up, with conditions getting better for the Democrats. Gov. Smith pulled out of Oklahoma City with the cheering assurance from state leaders that he had "won the state" by his spectacular assault on the religious issue, but these claims were pooh-poohed by the opposition. Striking a balance between the opposing claims, it would appear to nonpartisans that the state can still be listed in the doubtful column.

Irrespective of the partisan claims, literally tens of thousands of people turned out to see Gov. Smith between Oklahoma City and Denver. The crowds were particularly large as the Smith special crossed Southwestern Kansas and plunged into Colorado.

RIOTING RELATED HERE IN FIGHT AGAINST KLAN

Stories of riots, kidnapings and bloodshed were related yesterday by persons brought into contact with the Ku Klux Klan here, in depositions taken in an effort to have the Klan ousted from the state of Indiana.

Attorney General Arthur I. Gillion, of Indiana, took the statements of several witnesses which he will use in an equity action to cancel the foreign corporation certificate issued to the klan to permit its operation.

Joseph R. Shoemaker, a former kleagle; Clarence W. Ludlow, who belonged to the Texas branch of the order, and Roy F. Barclay, former head of the national detective branch maintained by the klan, related their experiences with the organization. Ludlow told of seeing seven or eight persons burned at the stake in Texas in 1920.

A witness whose name was not disclosed testified that he was tarred and feathered by members of the klan, who took him from his home two years ago. Barclay told of riots at Scottdale, Niles, O., and Carnegie.

ACCEPTS RIDE, IS ROBBED

Accepting the offer of three men who said they would drive him home in their automobile early today, Richard C. Golden, of 5923 Ellsworth avenue, was taken to Highland Park and robbed of his watch and $6. Golden told police he was hailed by the trio at Center and Highland avenues, a short distance from his home. He was put out in the park.

PITTSBURGHER ENTERS SHARON FLYING MEET

SHARON, Sept. 22.—Among the many planes coming here today for the Shenango Valley's first aviation meet, to be held at the American Eagle Airport, are one from Uniontown and another from Mayer Field, Pittsburgh. Both these ships are of the type used by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. The largest will be a tri-motor plane sent by the Ford Motor Company.

'Not Worth Theft,' Auto Stolen Anyhow

WESTON, W. VA., Sept. 22.—"My car is not worth stealing," said J. A. Carroll of Charleston, when warned by a youth not to park it in front of a hotel here all night. But just the same next morning Carroll found his car gone.

ONE IN JAIL, ONE IN HOSPITAL FOR HOLDUP

Adam Mets, 24, of 840 Progress street, was held for court today on a charge of highway robbery, named as one of two men who robbed John Flowers, of 223 Voeghtly street, of $62 in River avenue yesterday. The other alleged robber, James Smith, 54, of 309 Chesbro street, is in Allegheny General Hospital suffering from a fractured jaw received in the attack on Mets.

DENIAL OF GUILT ENDS "APE MAN'S" SILENCE

International News Service.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 22.—Gordon Stewart Northcott, Los Angeles "ape man," charged with a series of monstrous human butcheries on his chicken ranch near Los Angeles, broke his silence, for the first time since his arrest, here today.

While sitting in his cell awaiting extradition to California and the sinister ranch which served as the setting for his alleged wholesale murders, Northcott uttered the first words of his statement of innocence.

"Good God, what awful things to say about a man."

That was the beginning, then in defiant and caustic words, tumbling pell-mell in contrast to his previous silence, Northcott dramatically denied the most incredible charges against him.

"There has been a lot of stories circulated about me. All of them untrue. People suffering from over-imagination will be sorry when this case is all cleared up.

"There was only one reason why I left California. I simply could not tell my poor little mother of the monstrous things they were accusing me of. If my mother would have known of these charges. It would have killed her."

While young Northcott was stoutly denying his guilt of the child murders, a grand jury in Riverside, Cal., formally charged and indicted him with the ruthless butchery of four young boys. One of the victims named was Walter Collins, whose disappearance has brought developments in its wake almost as strange and bizarre as those centering about the so-called "murder farm" owned by Northcott.

Those were the outstanding developments in the drama today. But there were others. Briefly summarized these assertions are:

That two terror-stricken boys were seen at Northcott's ranch, standing out in the rain, while Northcott was in the ranch house.

That Northcott repeatedly sought to lure another boy to his home and that Northcott's actions so frightened the lad's mother that she forbade her son to go near the ranch.

That Northcott had often arranged "picnics" for the boys at his ranch.

That Phillip Scott and three boy friends were seen to enter the Northcott home August 8—they were never seen after that date.

Northcott is also charged with the murder of the headless Mexican youth, whose mutilated body was found near Puente.

"HAPPIEST GIRL," POLLY SAYS SAILING TO GENE

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Mary Josephine Lauder, wealthy fiancee of Gene Tunney, was on her way to Italy today to marry the retired heavyweight champion.

With her mother and several friends she sailed shortly after midnight for Naples aboard the Italian liner Saturnia, "The happiest girl in the world."

No definite plans for the wedding have been made so far as she knows, she said, and she doesn't believe Gene has completed plans. "All I know is that I'm going to be married soon—and honestly, that's enough for the present."

"Happy? Oh, I'm the happiest girl in the world. Even with those awfully complicated Italian marriage laws to face I would not change places with any girl in the world today. Yes, I do feel romantic about it. I've never been so thrilled in my life, because, whatever happens, I'm sure I'm going to be married."

She said that Gene would not meet her at Naples, but that "there's nothing strange about that. I'll see him shortly after we get there anyway."

"How long will we be abroad? I can't tell that either. Isn't it too delicious to know so little about my own wedding plans? I think—remember, this is just what I think now, not what I know—I think we will be away for at least a year, and maybe two years. Maybe even three. And as for plans when we return, on that I haven't the faintest notion and it's not bothering me."

Polly, as she is known to her friends, and her mother are occupying a $6,000 suite of six rooms and a private deck veranda.

HOLD 2 SUSPECTS IN NORTH SIDE HOLDUP

Accused of having held up John Flowers, of 220 Voeghtley street, at Madison and River avenues early today, James Smith, 30, of 309 Chesbro street, and Adam Metz, 40, of 840 Progress street, are being held in the North Side Police Station on suspicious person charges. Flowers was robbed of $22 and a $40 check and immediately notified police. A short time later the two were picked up near the scene. Flowers identified the men, police say.

Florida Desperate :-: Where Bitter Fight Against Disease Is Waged :-: Reconstruction Slowed

PALM BEACH COLLAPSE

JUNK, JUST JUNK

FIGHT BITTER

Dread fevers threaten Florida today when in its weakened condition it tries valiantly to rally and sooth hurricane wounds. These are Palm Beach survivors seeking out their few personal effects left by the storm.

BELLE GLADE REGION

In the hard-hit Belle Glade region, from which it became necessary to send most of the survivors because of disease spread, the great task is burial of the victims. Here, rough coffins are made of salvage. Rapid body decomposition is serious.

BLIGHTED BEAUTY

This is one of the pretty little lakefront boathouse in Palm Beach that collapsed in the storm, representing only a mite of the tremendous, widespread wreckage that the twin Palm Beaches suffered. Note how hurricane waters damaged the concrete street.

MOUNTING TOLL

The damage toll and the death list continue to mount, higher and higher as each hour of relief work passes. Here is one little Palm Beach survivor and a pet cat, both fortunate to be alive after the fury of the storm. Look at the heavy damage here.

STAGE AND SCREEN ACTIVITIES DETAILED IN PICTURES AND GOSSIP ABOUT PLAYERS

Mary Pickford, Questing for Leading Man for New Film, "Coquette," Inclines to John Mack Brown

John Mack Brown Tested And May Get Role as Lead In New Mary Pickford Film

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22.

MARY PICKFORD is evincing some interest in Johnny Mack Brown for the leading masculine role in "Coquette." At the request of America's sweetheart, tests of Johnny were taken and shown to both Mary and "Doug." They must have looked good to these United Artists players for Johnny was asked to come over and make himself known. Of course if Mary wants him, Mr. Mayer, who is the rudder of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, will extend her the courtesy of loaning him for the part.

It would seem that Johnny would be a first rate selection for the boy part. He can act, looks well and is "just the type." And what a break it would be for him. Here's hoping he gets his chance.

Make a note to see "The Mysterious Island" when it is shown some time in December or January. It promises to be one of the most interesting movies filmed for many a long day. Most of the action takes place on the floor of the sea, which is shown as being peopled by thousands of the weirdest creatures imaginable. There are monsters of the deep, too. In fact all sorts of thrilly things together with an abundance of ingenious effects and novel innovations. The Metro organization is scouring the country for midgets and dwarfs. There will be as many of these little folk used in the picture as can be gathered together.

Director Jim Cruze is enthusiastic over his present picture, "A Man's Man," in which he is megaphoning instructions to Bill Haines and Josephine Dunn. Jim says its a great picture, and adds an additional rave for Josie, another New York girl who has made good in the cinema city. Jim's next one will be "The Duke Steps Out" instead of "The Gob." It will be adapted from a yarn said to be based on the life of one of our retired Shakespearean scholars. Bill Haines will be the "Duke."

If Gloria's "Hank" doesn't come home to Hollywood from that gay Paree before the Marquise completes "Queen Kelley," she is going over to fetch him back. Gloria says that business affairs may delay Henri, and that nothing would please her more than to take a jaunt around Europe as a vacation treat after the work of her production. For one reason and another, it doesn't look now as though Von Stroheim will begin his direction for another month. So Gloria probably will get her boat ride.

While Estelle Taylor's show, "The Big Fight," was having its New York premiere, with Estelle and Jack Dempsey taking curtain calls, her latest photoplay, "The Shanghai Mutiny," was being previewed in Hollywood. Her beauty brought "Ohs" and "Ahs" a-plenty from the audience, and if she had been making a personal appearance via Movietone, there would have been applause literally reaching from coast to coast.

The big subject of conversation here right now is Lieut. Windsor, who has won all the Hollywood hearts in sight, both feminine and he-man. The Lieutenant, you know, is really Prince George, of England, who is being feted by the movie colony—and loves it. They do say that the Prince promised the old folks at home that he wouldn't monkey around with the movie queens. He wonders quite audibly why he has wasted so much time in other sections of the country. The men all vote him a real "prince," and the girls—well, they're all thrilled to death.

Lily Damitha has a little edge on the rest, for she met his highest on the other side. And it was she, so they say, who first told him that he certainly shouldn't go back home without seeing how the movies move. One of the tales is that at one party Lily's name was not on the list of invitations, and the prince decided that he wasn't so keen about attending this particular soiree. However, Lily was speedily added to the list of guests, and all was merry, as all is in the movies.

Dolores Costello's new leading man is Grant Withers. Grant is the six-foot something fellow who has made a hit for himself playing the role of Monte Blue's pal in "Greyhound Limited." Withers has been quietly building a reputation for himself for some time, and it only needed the opportunities offered by the Blue picture to win him the part opposite Dolores in "Madonna of Avenue A."

The Metro lot looks like a bit of Broadway these days. Among the main-stemmers who were greeting one another I saw Arthur Caesar, most recent arrival, mitting Milt Gross and his "Nize Baby," Gus Edwards, Billy Rose, who wrote "Me and My Shadow," Herb Brown, Arthur Fried and a lot more.

"Good News," Schwab & Mandel's musical comedy, comes to the Alvin for an engagement beginning next Monday night. Its locale is the campus of a small town college, opening as the big football game impends. Matinees are Wednesday and Saturday.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Reserved Seats

By ERIC HEATH

TOM LAMBERT got up stiffly from his knees, and slapped some of the damp, black soil from his overalls. All his life he had been a gardener, and for over 12 years had taken care of the spacious grounds of Horace Whitcomb's palatial suburban home. It was work he loved, and he had put his whole heart and soul into it, until the day when, three weeks before, the shadow of tragedy had hung over the Whitcomb home. Since that time he had gone about his customary tasks in a perfunctory, absent-minded manner.

He glanced over toward the little, vine-covered arbor, and near it he saw his 7-year-old son, Jack, playing in the sunshine. It seemed strange to Tom, even now, that the boy should be playing alone. He had not yet grown accustomed to the idea that little Jerry Whitcomb, Jack's comrade, was dead.

As Tom started down the pathway leading to the small, neat cottage where he lived with his wife and the boy, he felt a hand grasping his arm. He turned to looked into the haggard face of Horace Whitcomb. Jerry's sudden death, after a short illness that had not been considered by the doctors to be very serious, had been a terrible blow to Horace Whitcomb and his delicate young wife. They had no other children and had idolized their little son. To Tom it had seemed as though his employer aged 10 years during the tension of the last few heart-breaking weeks.

"I'd like to speak to you, Tom, if you have a few moments to spare," Horace Whitcomb said.

"Certainly, sir. Would you like me to come up to the house?"

"No, right here will be all right, I think."

Mr. Whitcomb led the way over to a nearby rustic bench and seated himself, motioning Tom to sit down beside him. For some moments they remained in silence. Mr. Whitcomb seemed to be nerving himself to speak. At last he began, his voice low and husky, and vibrating with earnestness:

"My wife and I are going away, Tom. To Europe. For a year or more, perhaps. We can't bear staying here after—"

Tom nodded sympathetically.

"I hope you won't take offense at what I am going to say. It is for Mrs. Whitcomb's sake, do you understand? She has a great longing to have little Jack with her. She has grown very fond of him, not only because he was our Jerry's playmate, but because he is such a fine little chap. She wants to adopt him—"

Tom caught his breath. This idea had never occurred to him. Mr. Whitcomb noticed his agitation, and went on:

"Of course you understand, Tom, it's entirely up to you and your wife. If we took the boy we would want to adopt him, of course, and bring him up as our own. But, after we return from Europe he could visit you and Mrs. Lambert as often as he liked. You understand that. We could give the boy all sorts of advantages, and a better chance in life than you could. There's that side of it, too. But it's principally for my wife's sake—it would make her happier to have the boy. She almost considers him her own child now."

Tom, thoughtfully revolving the idea in his mind, noticed that the other was waiting for his answer.

"I'd have to speak to mother," he said, uncertainly. "You don't want me to say 'Yes' or 'No' right now, do you?"

"Certainly not," Mr. Whitcomb replied. "Think it over, and talk it over with your wife. Take as long as you like to decide."

Tom Lambert and his wife, a quietly-dressed, sweet-faced little woman, were walking home from church the following Sunday noon, in the bright, spring sunshine. Instead of going directly back to their little cottage they followed one of the suburban streets where the pavement ended abruptly and a country road stretched, a dusty ribbon before their feet.

Tom Lambert had just told his wife what Horace Whitcomb had said.

They walked along silently for some time, then Tom voiced the thoughts that they both were thinking.

"You know, mother, I've said so often that some people are born so's they get the reserved seats in this life, and the rest ain't. You and me has always had to push our way into the gallery and grab what seats we could, whether we could hear and see real good or not. Life's easier for them that has reserved seats, but there's no use gambling if you ain't one of the lucky ones. Well, seems like our Jack's got a chance now to get one of the reserved seats—"

He stopped because of a lump in his throat. His wife nodded, not trusting herself to speak. But after a few moments, she whispered:

"We'd miss him awful bad—"

"He'd get education, what we never got. Like as not the Whitcombs would send him to college, come time for that. Travelin', too. Nice clothes. Nice friends to play with. He'd have a better chance all 'round, wouldn't he?"

"Nobody could love him like us."

"No, but the Whitcombs will be fine to him. I know them. They're fine, good people. And it ain't like we'll be losin' him entirely. He can come to see us lots of times."

"I'd miss tuckin' him in bed, though."

"Well, maybe we'd better not give him up, then," Tom said with relief.

"I'm not the one to stand in my child's way," Mrs. Lambert retorted with spirit.

"Then you mean we oughter let them take him?"

Not getting a reply, he stole a look at his wife's face. A tear was sliding down her cheek.

"Then we'll keep him!" he declared.

"It would be so funny not to heart him running around the house, hear him tryin' to whistle and all—but we'll have to give him up, Tom, much as it hurts us. We got to think of him. It would be best for him."

Not noticing, they had turned down a side road and were walking along a high board fence.

"We'll miss him awful," Tom mumbled.

Suddenly they heard the shouting of children, and came to an open gate in the fence. They looked into the bare yard where a group of boys and girls in blue uniforms were playing hilariously. They stopped, and looking at each other, realized that they were both thinking the same thing.

"This is the county orphan asylum, ain't it?" Tom said. "I suppose the home we could give one of those poor little mites would be a lot better than what they get in an institution, all herded in together, and all. No individual fathers or mothers or anything. Why, say, one of those kids, mother, would think they was gettin' a reserved seat, with what we could give 'em. Ever think of that?"

"I've always wanted a little girl, with curls," Mrs. Lambert said.

"Yes, a girl," Tom agreed. "A girl wouldn't remind us of Jack."

"Do you suppose they would let us have one?" Mrs. Lambert asked. "We ain't rich."

"No, but we could give a kid a real nice home. There's Jack's comfortable bed. And the whole Whitcomb garden for her to play in. An' love and care an let's do it, mother."

Mrs. Lambert looked at him tenderly. Ths old joy had crept back into his eyes, the old enthusiasm into his voice.

Taking his arm, she said; "Yes, Tom, we will."

And they did.

DENY MINE RELIEF HEAD AND RECORDS MISSING

Officials of the National Miners' Relief Committee today issued a statement saying that neither the records of the National Miners' Relief Committee, nor Alfred Wagenknecht, its relief director, have "vanished," as government officials charged.

The relief committee's statement reads, in part:

"The books and records of the relief organization, which Postal Inspector George V. Craighead and a United States marshal illegally piled into four mail sacks during a raid on the relief office last Friday, have been restored to their proper places, and the work of the committee is continuing.

"Hunger is widespread in the mine fields and the National Miners' Relief Committee, in spite of unwarranted interference, is doing its utmost to ward off starvation.

"Mr. Wagenknecht is not avoiding service of the subpena, but is carrying on the business of the relief committee as usual."

He was committed to jail August 27, charged with conspiracy and resisting an officer, to await trial, by Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan, of Sewickley.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Rain Stops Just in Time and Skies Smile for Westmoreland Hunt Club's Horse Show at Greensburg

ENGAGED :-: LEAVES FOR SOUTHERN SCHOOL :-: CARD PARTY

ANTOINETTE S. GASIOR

Miss Antoinette S. Gasior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gasior, Pittsburgh, whose engagement to Martin J. Hupert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hupert, of this city, was announced on her birthday anniversary.

JEAN WEST HAY

Miss Jean West Hay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Zimmerman, Center street, Wilkinsburg, left this week to enter the Southern Seminary, Buena Vista, Va. Miss Hay was graduated from Wilkinsburg High School in June.

MRS. EDWARD RYNEARSON

Mrs. Edward Rynearson heads one of the committees assisting on Monday at the benefit card party to be given for the permanent scholarship loan fund of the Congress of Clubs.

KIND of the weather man, wasn't it, to stop the rain just in time to prevent the Westmoreland Hunt Club's horse show from being a repetition of the water-soaked Allegheny Country Club show last June? Yesterday, the first day, provided ideal weather for the show, just warm enough to be comfortable and no hint of rain, and from appearances this morning, this is about the same sort of day.

I was a little disappointed yesterday not to see more familiar faces at Greensburg, although, to be sure, there were a few scattered groups of Pittsburghers here and there. Today probably will see more local folks motoring over for the show, and staying for the dinner dance at the Greensburg Country Club or dinner at the Rolling Rock Club.

There were very few box parties yesterday, but I did notice in one group the Mortimer Millers with their daughter, Mrs. Roy A. Hunt and her children; Mrs. Terrell Johnson and Mrs. John W. Lawrence. A little further back were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Norton Van Voorhis with the junior Henry Clay Bughmans and Mrs. Lucian Patton. And speaking of Mrs. Lawrence, I noted three feminine members of the Flinn family riding in one class—Mrs. Lawrence, her sister, Mrs. Simon Patterson, and their sister-in-law, Mrs. A. Rex Flinn.

Both Mrs. Donald Scott Rodgers and Mrs. Lewis Park were riding their own horses in one class, and I saw the George H. Calverts watching the show from their car parked at the rindside. Mrs. J. O. Burgwin was another Pittsburgher there and so were the A. Cameron Manns. Mary Lou and Nancy Lea Paull also were interested spectators, and the Dorwin Donnellys were there, too. Mary Louise Johnson, Margaret McClintic and Margaret Stewart had an excellent view of the ring from a vantage point on the folded-back top of a ringside motor car.

BUT to get away from the subject of horse shows for a while, it would seem that the debutante season has started in earnest. The Christian Ihmsen Shannons, of Sewickley, gave a beautiful dinner dance last night in the Allegheny Country Club for two of the buds, Margaret Holdship and Virginia Willock. Margaret will make her debut in October, you know, and Virginia came out last June. There were about 125 guests at the dinner, and the tables were decorated with dahlias.

And another, but smaller, debutante party of yesterday was the bridge luncheon with Helen Rebecca West, daughter of the Charles H. Wests, of Forbes street, gave in the Fox Chapel Golf Club for Elizabeth Campbell, who is visiting Bettie Berger Dunlap, of South Highland avenue. Both Helen and Bettie will be presented to society this season, and the guests at the luncheon were sister debutantes. Elizabeth Campbell is a collegemate of Bettie at Smith, and, by the way, Bettie is leaving for school tomorrow. She is a sophomore this year, I believe.

ANOTHER party for a visitor is being held this afternoon, when Helen Louise Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Chambers, of Maple lane, Sewickley, is entertaining at bridge for Mary White Johnson, of Baltimore, the house guest of Virginia McKibbin, of Grove street. Virginia gave a tea Wednesday afternoon for her visitor, I understand.

* * *

DID you know that Mrs. George S. Ebbert has sailed for Europe to join her son, James Ebbert, who has been touring the continent for the last three months. Mr. Ebbert will join his family in London a little later. And another who will spend some time away from home is Mrs. Franklin C. Irish. With her daughter, Lydia, Mrs. Irish will leave Monday for California to remain through the fall and winter.

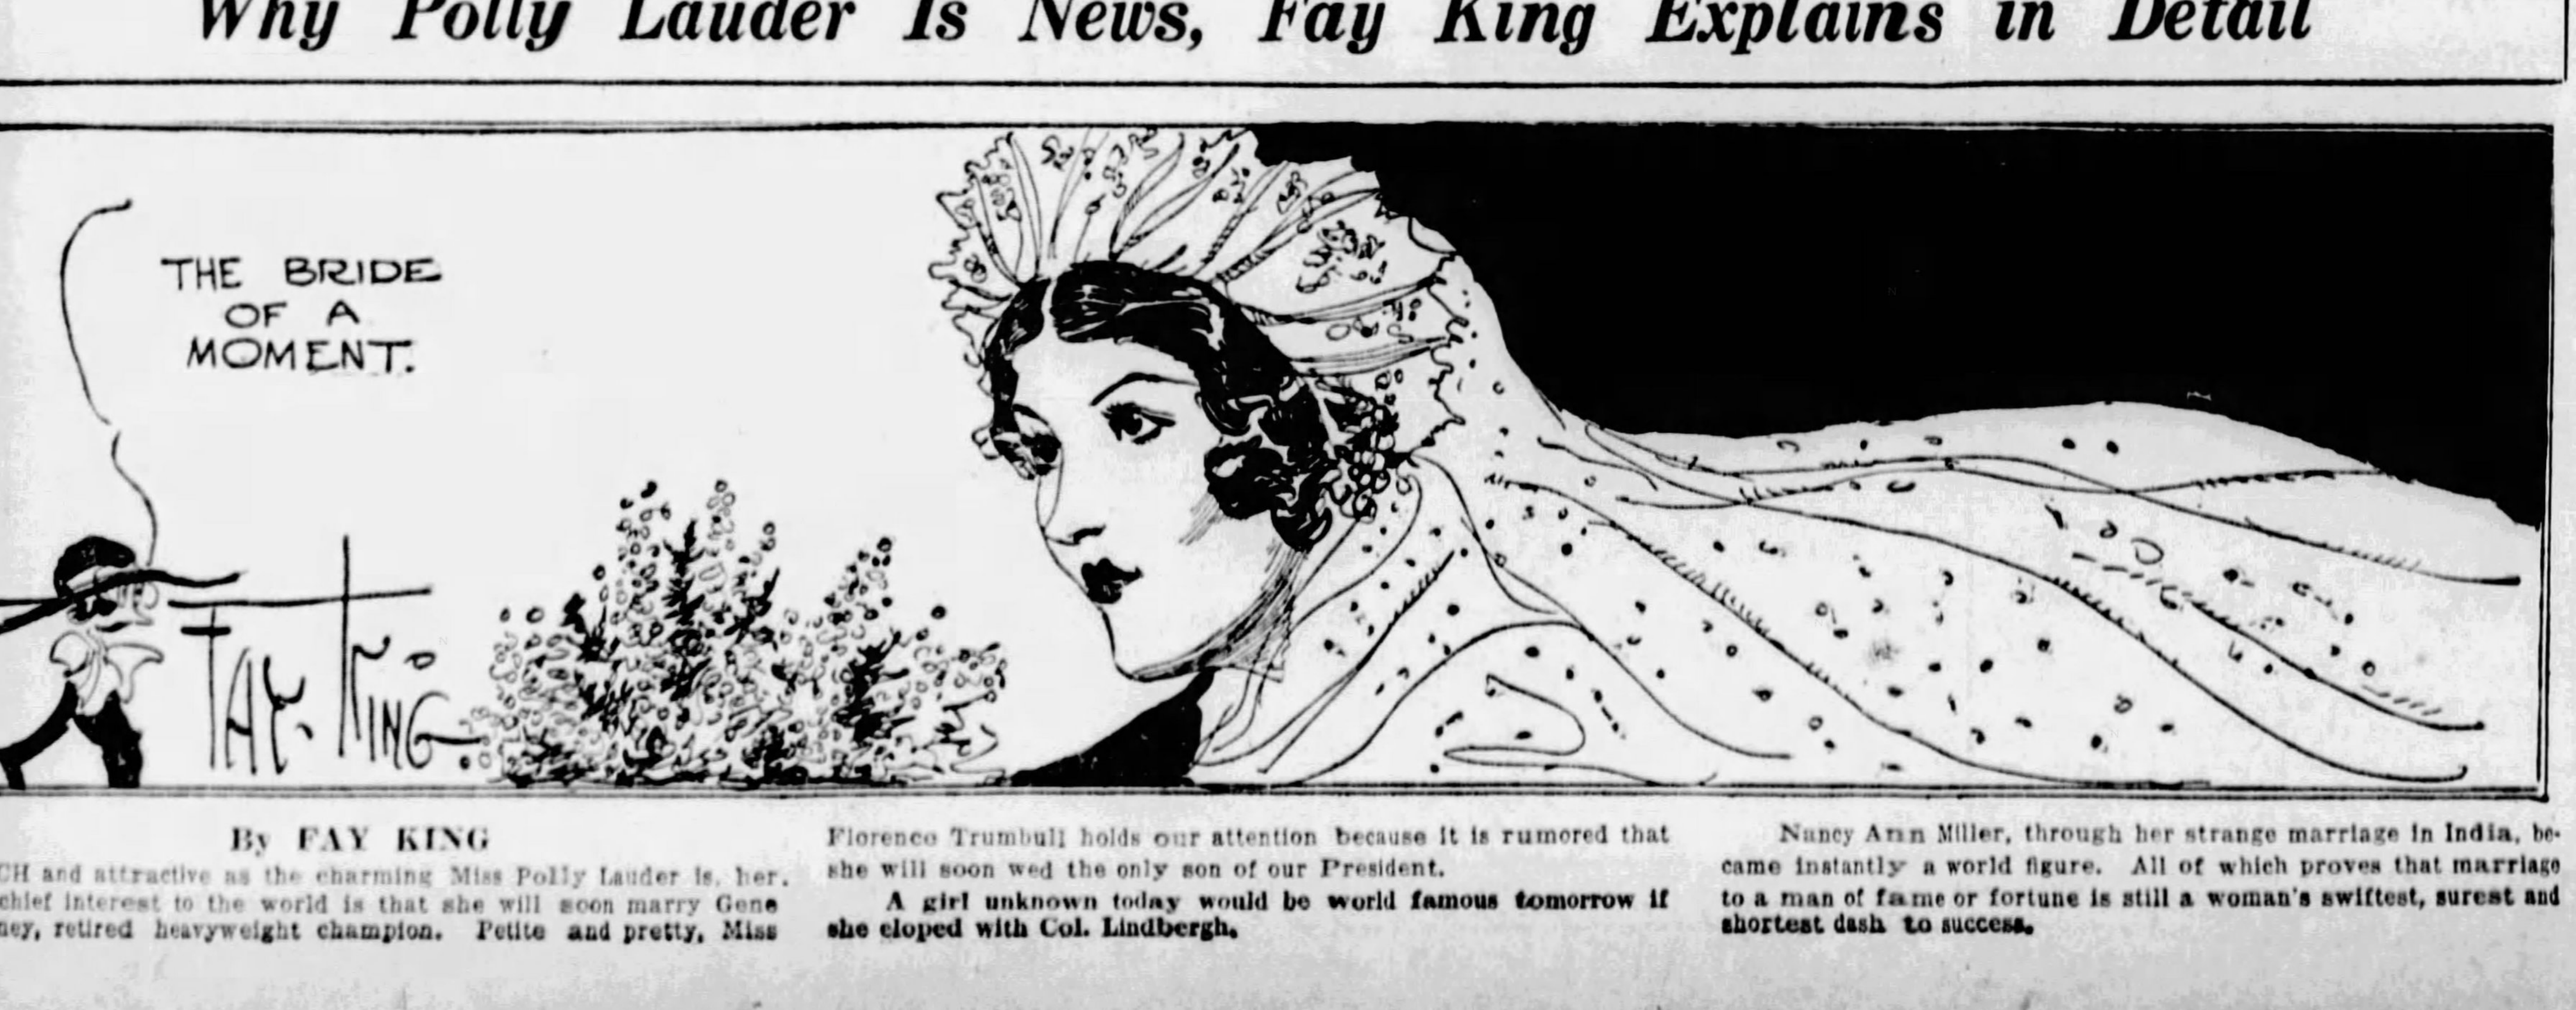
Why Polly Lauder Is News, Fay King Explains in Detail



THE BRIDE OF A MOMENT.
FAY KING

By FAY KING

RICH and attractive as the charming Miss Polly Lauder is, her chief interest to the world is that she will soon marry Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion. Petite and pretty, Miss Florence Trumbull holds our attention because it is rumored that she will soon wed the only son of our President.

A girl unknown today would be world famous tomorrow if she eloped with Col. Lindbergh.

Nancy Ann Miller, through her strange marriage in India, became instantly a world figure. All of which proves that marriage to a man of fame or fortune is still a woman's swiftest, surest and shortest dash to success.

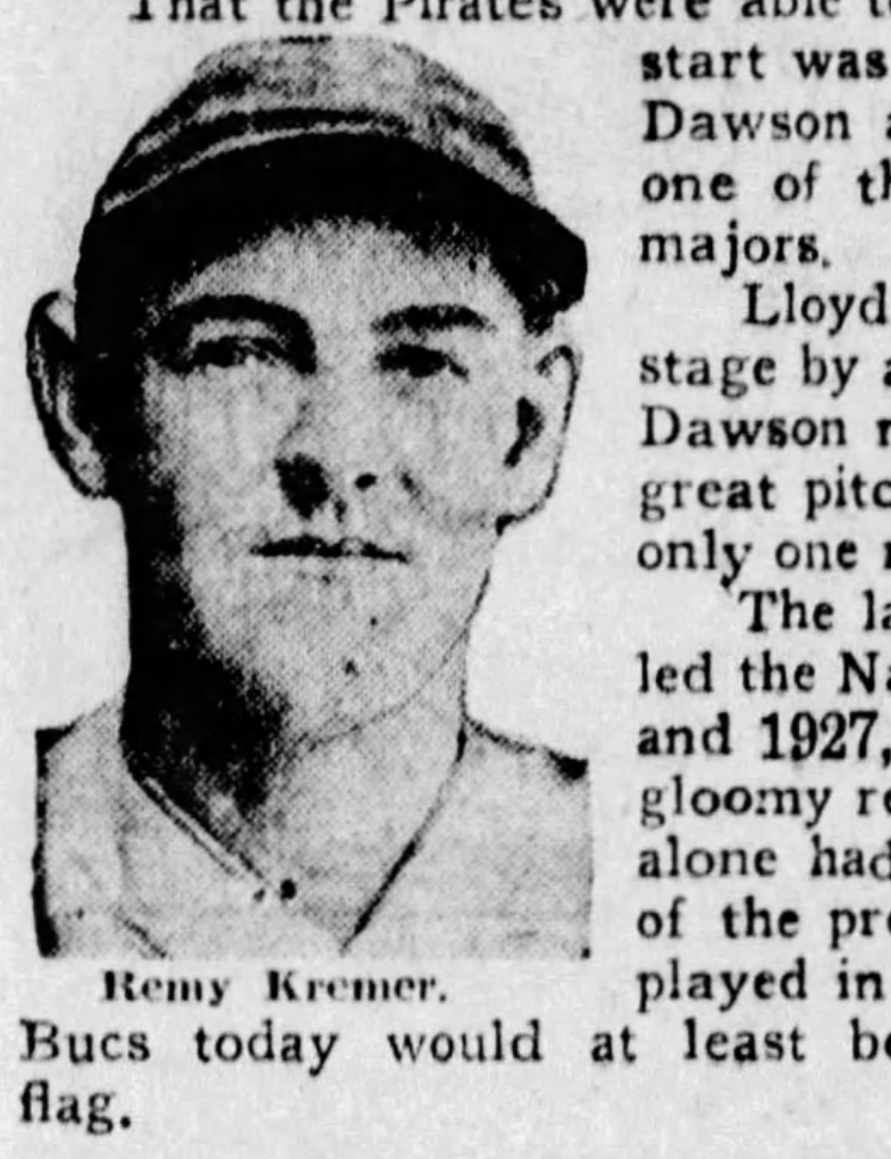
SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Kremer's Season of Ill Luck Main Cause of Pirates' Pennant Failure—Grimes Makes Another Attempt for Twenty-fifth Victory—Yankees Make Important Gain in American League Race.

ONE inning yesterday, in the first game he had started since September 10, sufficed to show that Remy Kremer's pitching machinery is still out of whack.



Remy Kremer.

That the Pirates were able to win out after Kremer's poor start was due only to the fact that Joe Dawson again demonstrated that he is one of the best relief pitchers in the majors.

Lloyd Waner helped him out at one stage by a sensational catch, but at that Dawson must be given credit for some great pitching, as he allowed the Phils only one run in eight innings.

The latest off-spell of Kremer, who led the National League hurlers in 1926 and 1927, brings to Pittsburgh fans the gloomy reflection that if this one Pirate alone had shown during the first part of the present season the form he displayed in the preceding two years the Bucs today would at least be strong contenders for the flag.

BUT illness and injury made Kremer almost a complete loss in the early part of the race. Prior to July 10 he won only four games against 11 defeats.

Since that date he has won 11 and lost only two. If he had approached that gait during April, May and June the Corsairs would now be "there or thereabouts" in spite of all the other misfortune that has befallen them.

BURLEIGH GRIMES will make another attempt in Philadelphia this afternoon to gain the distinction of being the first big league pitcher to win 25 games this season. Grimes has never before reached that goal, and Howard Camnitz in 1909 and Johnny Morrison in 1923 have been the only Pittsburgh pitchers to attain it in the last 20 years.

Grimes has found the last five games the hardest in striving for 25 victories. He won 20 of his first 29 contests this season, but in his fight for the five additional decisions that he needed after that stage he has been able to win only four out of eight games.

Burleigh Grimes.

THE Athletics' pennant stock went down again yesterday when the Yankees made an important gain by beating the White Sox while the Mackmen were losing to their old hoodoo, Elam Van Gilder, of the Tigers, for the third time in four games this year. The Hugmen again are leading by two full games. If they win five of their remaining nine contests the A's will have to capture seven out of nine to tie them and eight out of nine to beat them to the wire.

SEVERAL readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph had a friendly argument as to whether the sensational football game in which Carnegie Tech beat the famous Notre Dame team was played in 1925 or 1926, and request some information as to the disputed date. The game was played at Forbes Field on Saturday, November 27, 1926, and Carnegie Tech's winning score was 19 to 0.

Hugo Bezdek, Penn State coach, was discussing that game while in Pittsburgh recently and said that the eleven sent on the field by Judge Steffen that day was the most powerful he ever saw; that it virtually splintered the Notre Dame defense. And Knute Rockne had one of his best teams that year, an outfit that beat the Army, Minnesota, Penn State, Northwestern, Georgia Tech, Indiana and Southern Cailfornia. Carnegie Tech beat every opponent in 1926 except W. & J and New York University.

FREDDIE LUX of McKeesport, former welterweight boxer, who made a creditable record in a long list of fights hereabouts and in the East during his ring days, is back in the game, though not as a battler. He believes there is a demand for new faces at boxing shows in this district and has opened a boxing school with a view to developing ambitious boys in the various classes.

Judge Steffen.

It is Freddie's belief that there are numerous youngsters in the surrounding towns who have much native ability but no opportunity of developing it. He is confident that in his hands the best in these boys could be brought out and that he would be able to develop some of them into capable fighters.

Lux plans to build up and manage a stable of his own, and is ready to handle the affairs of any boxers around here who are without pilots. He requests that all boxers or beginners interested address him at 1824 Fremont street, McKeesport, or telephone McKeesport 22279.

HOW would you like to ride 10,000 miles on horseback and spend three years in doing it to look at a polo match? That's what J. Tschiffely of the Argentine has done. It wasn't exactly for the purpose of seeing a polo match that Tschiffely made the long journey, but to demonstrate the hardiness and endurance of the American horse. Riding his piebald horse, Mancha, Tschiffely started from Buenos Aires for New York three years ago, and it was just a timely break that they arrived in time to head the parade opening the polo pony show at the Meadowbrook Club on Long Island today and also the parade that will precede the opening of the international polo competition between the United States and Argentine next Saturday. The horse is 19 years old.

THOUGH there is no apparent scarcity of good ends in Pittsburgh's college football circles this fall, the cry of many coaches in other parts of the country is for more and better terminal men.

Among the gridiron chiefs whose squads are lacking in

ALTOONA SCENE OF RAILROAD GAMES

By JESS M. CARVER.
Staff Correspondent.

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 22.—More than 900 men and women athletes, survivors of the elimination contests held during the summer in the three operating regions, the Altoona Works and the General Offices in Philadelphia, are competing here today in the eighth annual track and field championships for employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

In addition to the track and field competition, the program includes tennis, trap-shooting, rifle shooting, quoits, horse shoes, golf, swimming and baseball.

Trials in the track and field events were held on the Altoona Cricket field this morning, the finals being run off in the afternoon.

SERIES OPENS

The baseball game brings together the Pitcairn (Pa.) Shop team, of the Pittsburgh Division, champion of the Western Lines, and the Philadelphia Terminal Division team, which recently won the Eastern Lines championship for the eighth consecutive year. Today's game is the first of a series of three which will be played to decide the championship.

Among the Pittsburgh District entrants regarded as "headliners" in the track and field events are T. Collella, high jumper and shot-putter; Tom Cornell, sprinter; Fred Amick, distance star, and H. W. Smith, jumper. John Law, Pittsburgh A. A. merman, is expected to win many points in the swimming competition.

The Pittsburgh District squad, rated as the best balanced entry, is one of the favorites for the point trophy. The competition, however, will be exceptionally keen, with the Panhandle Division, boasting among its athletes Ramus, Ohio State's track and football star, and Anson, Ohio University high jumper, seeking revenge for the defeat suffered in the regional tryouts at Pitcairn three weeks ago.

Approximately 30,000 persons, including high officials of the railroad, are witnessing the championships.

LES MARRINER WINS

RANTOUL, Ill., Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The pile-driving punches of Les Marriner found their mark again last night and he stopped Oscar Baker of California in the third round of their scheduled 10-round match at Chanute Field. Marriner weighed 188 and Baker 189.

McGraw Fouls Terris

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Sid Terris, the one-time "Ghetto Ghost" won on a foul in the sixth round of his 10-round bout with Phil McGraw, Detroit florist, at the Coney Island Stadium last night.

Terris, attempting a comeback after suffering one-round knockout defeats at the hands of Jimmy McLarnin and Ray Miller in his last two starts, was leading on points when McGraw was disqualified. There was some disorder among the spectators when the decision was awarded Terris, but the vigilance of police prevented the outbreak from assuming threatening proportions.

It was the fourth meeting between Terris and McGraw, who, until recent months, ranked as two of the leading lightweight contenders. The weights were, Terris 134¾, McGraw 135½.

PETROLLE STOPS LOAYZA

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Billy Petrolle, Fargo, S. D., lightweight, knocked out Stanislaus Loayza of Chile in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night. Petrolle floored the Chilean with a fusillade of rights and lefts to the head.

Early in the second round Petrolle caught Loayza with a right hook to the chin that caused the Chilean to cling to the ropes for support. As Loayza wavered about helplessly, Petrolle charged in and finished him. Loyaza was "out" for 5 minutes.

Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight champion, stopped Bert Lamb of Detroit in the seventh round of a 10-round contest.

Lew Kirsch, New York lightweight, outpointed Roger Bernard of Flint, Mich., in 10 rounds.

BUCS PLAY TWO WITH PHILS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.
Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—The Pirates will close their season's book with the Phillies this afternoon by taking part in a double-header. Incidentally the bargain fair will give the Duke of Burleigh a chance to ride to a twenty-fifth victory, and needless to say Grimes will be bearing down.

The spitball star and Ervin Brame are scheduled to work the holiday special. Fred Fussell is too ill to take his turn, it is believed. Fussell went down with the grippe after reaching this city. Manager Shotton is inclined to give some of his new players a chance to perform so he may rely on Earl Caldwell and Jack Milligan, two rookie flingers. The latter is a left-hander.

BUCS ADVANCE

As the Cubs lost yesterday the Buccos picked up a full game on the third-place Bruins, this being an encouraging trend in the Pittsburghers' ambition to get out in front of the Bears. The McCarthy clan, however, is still four good games ahead of the Freebooters, and this, dear reader, is quite an advantage with the race almost run.

The Freebooters made it two in a row over the Quakers yesterday, but they had to step on the gas all the way to get a 6 to 5 decision. Lloyd Waner, whose batting swayed the game of the previous afternoon, saved yesterday's contest by a marvelous capture of a ball near the center field bleachers in the eighth inning with one out and the tieing run on second.

Lloyd's circus catch not only held the tieing tally on the paths, it kept the winning run from reaching third with only one Quaker erased. Third-baseman Whitney was the immediate victim of the larceny stunt put over by Sprout the Elder. Leach opened the eighth with a two-sacker off the right field wall. Joe Dawson, winning pitcher of the MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 22.—The Davis-Elkins football squad arrived here last evening and immediately went to the Hotel Morgan, which has been designated as Senator headquarters.

A large crowd of Scarlet Hurricane followers came with Henderson's aggregation, which seemed confident of victory. John Roscoe Turner, president of West Virvinia University addressed the largest crowd of students here last night that ever attended a "thuse" in recent years.

Commencement Hall was packed to overflowing and interest in the Hurricane-Mountaineer game was at a fever heat on the eve of the battle, the outcome of which is regarded as a tossup.

NEW YORK MUST SURVIVE TEST

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Today's game, the third of the series between the Giants and the Cardinals, may turn out to be the deciding encounter of the National League pennant race. If it does not, the final game of the season, on September 30, is very likely to carry the flag with it.

By breaking even in the first doubleheader Thursday, the Giants maintained thier place two games behind the league-leaders, but with only nine games left on the schedule the split is believed to have given St. Louis a considerable advantage.

New York must now win today's game to stay in the running. A loss would put them three full games behind with eight tough encounters left on the schedule, while the last game would be the only hard one for the Cards. And the Giants would have to win all eight to tie if St. Louis merely broke even.

The Cardinals go to Brooklyn for a four-game series, then play three at Boston before they return to New York, while the Giants must entertain the tough Cincinnati Reds three times and battle the third-place Cubs four times in the same period. St. Louis figures to make a better showing during the week than New York.

Clarence Mitchell, veteran left-handed spitball pitcher, is the probable choice of Bill McKechnie for the crucial game. Mitchell has had a good season against the Giants although he lost the last time he faced them in St. Louis and seems to have the best chance of turning in a victory. With his ace, Larry Benton, unavailable, John McGraw probably will use Fred Fitzsimmons, with Joe Genewich as second choice.

SOCCER NEWS by TOM BIRKS

TODAY'S GAMES.

U. S. & S. at Pittsburgh (Homewood) Brannigan.

Harmarville at Central A. C. (Brown).

Leechburg at Springdale (Simpson).

THREE games are carded in the Central League this afternoon, the feature being at Homewood, where the Pittsburgh Soccer Club hooks up with the Union Switch and Signal eleven. Both clubs won their initial tilt last Saturday, although there is a feeling that Moreman and the boys are going to clean up in that loop.

Harmarville will make the trip to Westinghouse High School field to meet the Central A. C. There is a rumor floating around that Harmarville did not have a team last Saturday, but Bob Robinson would not let the game stand scheduled if he could not fulfill the date.

The final game will find Leechburg traveling into new soccer territory, at Springdale. This being in the form of a local derby, the game should attract a good-sized crowd. Springdale is all pepped up and might give the Leechburg boys plenty of trouble.

OVER THE NET

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

OFFICIAL pronouncement from Pittsburgh Tennis Association headquarters yesterday declared Karl Wolfe's crack South Hills aggregation champion of Section Two, of the P. T. A. Inter-Club League. The Hillsmen had been informally reckoned "in" for a month or more, but until yesterday's manifesto defaulting Minnetonka Canoe Club for failure to arrange a play-off date for a match postponed from August 25, there still existed mathematical possibility for Wilbur Parshley's runner-up Mt. Lebanon host to overtake the pace-setting Wolfe-pack.

South Hills has arranged through Capt. Howard Moore of College avenue to encounter the latter host at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the annual inter-sectional contest for a place in Division One. The joust is scheduled for the University Club courts, neutral ground, and the victor will be entitled to compete in the upper sector of the loop in the 1929 race. College Avenue lies at the bottom of Section One heap, and is thereby open to challenge by the victor of the Section Two titular chase.

While College Avenue tangles with South Hills, Dave O'Loughlin and his P. A. A. followers will be engaging University Club on the Winged Head lot. This tussle, vital to the Red and Gray in its dash for the McLain cup, has been twice called off due to inclement weather, but with promise of fair skies today, a hectic embroglio is assured.

The final standing of Section Two:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
South Hills	73	17	.811
Mt. Lebanon	66	24	.733
Westinghouse	45	45	.500
Minnetonka	34	56	.378
Philadelphia Company	29	61	.322
West Park	23	67	.256

CITY LEAGUERS RENEW SERIES

With the teams all primed, the Hermes-Grove and Book Shoe nines will battle today in the third game of the City League post-season championship series at Born playgrounds, the game being called at 3 o'clock. The first contest found the Dairymen on the long end of a 7-to-2 score, and the second tilt finished in a 6-6 tie.

It seems that with their backs to the wall, Book Shoe will have to stage a do-or-die effort. Hermes needs only to win today's game to cop the championship. It is hard to say just whom the rival managers will send to the mound. Tommy Carson, with a game under his belt, can afford to gamble and will warm up Cabby, Snee and Leon. Leon won the first game. Manager Huck Finn will have Toner, Callahan, Keenan or Cook from whom to select a pitcher. To the average fan, however, it appears Callahan and Leon will get the assignments.

City Set For Series

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22.—St. Louis is suffering another attack of pennantitis.

With the Cardinals two games out in front and with nine games to go, pennant "ifs" have become the prevailing pastime.

Fans who wager on such matters now have placed the Cardinals in pole position, held recently by the Giants.

Odds of 4 to 1 against are quoted here.

Furthermore, "fan morale" is definitely on the upswing. Scores of Redbird rooters have sent telegrams to Rabbit Maranville to forget his recent costly error. Others have sent congratulatory wires to George Harper.

Every play of every inning of every game from now on is a matter of vital importance to thousands of St. Louisans, who know where the tickers and radios are and who make good use of them.

Meanwhile, somewhat gingerly and without any swank, officials of the club here have let it be known that an important announcement may be expected next Monday.

That announcement, it is understood, will be that distribution of world series tickets this year will be exclusively by mail. Applications will be filed in order of reception.

Behind that premature announcement, of course, is the pennant "if."

Plans are afoot to accommodate 39,000 fans at each game played in St. Louis, distributed as follows: 23,000 grandstand, 5,000 bleachers, 3,500 pavilion, 3,500 standing, 1,500 temporary boxes, and 2,500 regular boxes.

Seats will be sold in series of three, costing $16.75; two seats at each of three games, $33.25. The ordinary reserved seat of $5.50 will sell for 25 cents additional to take care of mailing and clerical costs.

KNOCKOUTS FEATURE ELKS' AMATEUR SHOW

Pittsburgh Lodge No. 11, P. B. O. Elks, staged its first amateur boxing show of the season last night at the Temple, Seventh street and Duquesne way. Three knockouts were scored. The first was made by Eddie Polo of the Willow Club, who kayoed Johnny Kaskey of the Eighteenth Ward Club after two minutes and 25 seconds in the first round.

Bob Smoller of the North Side scored a knockout over Jake Brennen of the Eighteenth Ward Club in one round. Louis Santucci of the North Side scored a knockout over Eddie McGraw of the Eighteenth Ward A. C. in one round. He floored McGraw after 59 seconds of fighting.

George (Slip) Lehr of the North Side A. C. defeated Bob Gannon of the Willow Club in one of the greatest fights ever witnessed at the Elks' Lodge.

The main bout between Billy Winso of the Duke O'Hara Club of McKeesport and George Chambers of the Willow Club went to Winso.

A'S AND CUBS LOSE GROUND

The Athletics, two games behind the Yankees in the American League race, must capture seven of their eight remaining games to grab the pennant if the Yankees win five out of nine. If the Yanks win seven out of nine they will clinch the pennant. The standing:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.	Games to play.
New York	95	50	.655	9
Philadelphia	93	52	.641	8

By losing to Brooklyn while St. Louis and New York were idle, the Chicago Cubs practically killed their pennant chances in the National League. They are now two games behind the Giants and four games behind the Cardinals. The standing:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.	Games to play.
St. Louis	89	56	.614	9
New York	87	58	.600	9
Chicago	85	60	.586	9

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Sept. 22.—West Virginia Wesleyan carried victory over Fairmont State College here yesterday afternoon, 43 to 0, in the opening game of the season. With Rodriguez pummeling the center of the line, McClung and Miller thrusting off tackle and Bachtel, Bottles, Thomas, Hench and Bill Anderson aiding the attack, Coach Ross' fighting Methodists trampled over the goal seven times.

GREENSBURG AT W. VIEW

The South Greensburg Independents will meet the West View football team at West View Park Saturday.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG that department is Tuss McLaughry, former Westminster star, who has made a great record in recent years as head coach at Brown. And that is only one of McLaughry's needs. He has 56 men out, but in addition to the paucity of ends he has been unable to find any good backfield prospects except Captain Al Cornsweet and Bud Edwards, and also is still looking for a kicker who can punt farther than 30 yards.

Tuss McLaughry:

TUSS says he has enough linemen for three teams, but some one has to carry the ball, and the coach fears he may be forced to convert a couple of guards or tackles into backs on offense.

"Give me a half-dozen backs who would be discarded elsewhere and Brown would have a great team this fall," McLaughry said.

BOYS with football ambition at Mt. Pleasant (D.) High School may be pardoned for feeling that some fellows get all the breaks. Recently Mt. Pleasant High cancelled all scheduled gridiron games and abandoned the sport on account of a shortage of funds. Lack of support last year left a heavy deficit and there wasn't enough money available to equip or operate an eleven this fall. Now comes a news dispatch from Muskegon, Mich., announcing that at Muskegon High there is a football suit for every boy. Regardless of whether a player stands a chance of making the first, second, third or fourth team, he will be furnished with a grid outfit. To date 110 suits have been distributed, and more boys are coming out daily.

game with Thiel College in the Stadium next Saturday.

Assistane Coaches Charley Bowser and Alex Stevenson are delegates to the first football convention in the district, the game between West Virginia and Davis and Elkins on Mountaineer Field this afternoon. Head Coach Jock Sutherland is an alternate and may accompany his assistants to Morgantown. The Panthers were not scrimmaged yesterday.

CARNEGIE TECH

Having welded the different parts of their machine together, Coaches Wally Steffen and Bob Waddell, of Carnegie Tech, now will turn to the task of seeing how it will function when put to the test. The polishing-up process preparatory to their inaugural game of the season with Westminster College at Youngstown a week from today will constitute the work of the Plaid the coming week.

Three weeks of practice end today with Skibo varsity candidates in excellent physical shape. Every man is ready for the gong which will send them into action.

Yesterday afternoon in the Tartan Bowl, before the alumni, the Skibo varsity gridders enjoyed one of the best skirmishes of the preliminary season against the Plebes. After the scrimmage Coach Steffen walked off the field satisfied the Tartan aggregation of 1928 will give a favorable account of itself in the hard games to come.

DUQUESNE

After two days' idleness, the Dukes were put through a snappy scrimmage yesterday afternoon. The field was a bit muddy after the long rain, but the men went better than ever before. Everything worked well; the men slipped into the various plays like clockwork.

Silverstein played center, Skender was used at tackle and Devinney and Sommer at quarterback and end respectively. All have been showing steady improvement, especially Skender, who has acquired aggressiveness. Sommer is another quietly blooming flower. Turk has been showing the best stuff of any of the recruit halfbacks.

ST. VINCENT'S

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 22.—The showing of Bill Ross in the scrimmage work yesterday was pleasing to the St. Vincent's coaches, for he will come in handy at quarterback. He is a Greensburg boy and attended Gettysburg Academy last year.

While he has been on St. Vincent's squad for some time, he nevertheless was slow in rounding into form. The season at St. Vincent's will open Saturday, September 29.

MT. UNION

ALLIANCE, September 22.—A squad of 30 gridiron candidates, including nine lettermen of last year, has been going through a series of stiff workouts the past week at Mt. Union College.

day, fanned Cy Williams in the big clinch, but Whitney clicked one that had the appearance of a homer as it traveled toward the seats of left center.

LLOYD FIELDS WELL

Lloyd was going along at a furious rate and he was nearing the boarded and screened barricade when he put up his gloved hand in a backhand manner and spiked the rocket beautifully. Leach had no trouble reaching the hot corner after the catch, Whitney being almost to second base when Lloyd nailed the ball.

Three homers were struck in the first inning, each side scoring four runs in this round. Glenn Wright rapped one over the fence with two mates on board, while Leach and Whitney each drove out four-sackers with a runner on the sacks. Leach's drive went over the fence, Whitney's coming to a stop in the left field bleachers. Pete Scott's sacrifice fly scored the other run of the inning for the Pirates.

Remy Kremer lasted just one round for the Pirates, Lefty Sweetland weathering the storm and pitching fine ball for the Phillies after the first round. Dawson went to the slab for the Pirates in the second, and Joe held the enemy to one run and seven hits in eight rounds.

Charley Hargreaves drove a Pirate tally over in the third with two out, the Quakers forcing a deadlock in the fifth. Fresco Thompson's fumble with the bases loaded and two out in the sixth allowed Dawson to cross the plate with what proved to be the winning run.

CHURCH LEAGUE ENDS SEASON WITH BANQUET

A banquet in the House by the Side of the Road, outside of Wilkinsbprg, last night marked the official close of the season in the Wilkinsburg Church Baseball League. Approximately 80 players and their friends attended. F. H. Yourison was master of ceremonies, Perry Dorrington sang, W. J. Kountz was at the piano and H. M. Sparr, former baseball player, appeared in a specialty. Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, was a speaker.

Two teams, Second United Presbyterian and Wilkinsburg Baptist, tied for the championship of the league and were unable to play off the deadlock because of the dispersal of players returning to school.

SCHOOL GRID RACE OPENS TODAY

Although the opening of the football season for Pittsburgh district high schools will not become general until next week, several Tri-State schools are prying off the gridiron lid today.

Headlining this afternoon's program is the Bellevue-New Castle High game at New Castle. New Castle's veteran machine is regarded as one of the favorites in the W. P. I. A. L. title race, and the North boroughs gridders are certain to encounter plenty of opposition.

Butler at Vandergrift, East Huntingdon Township at Greensburg and Midland at New Brighton are other games of today which will attract the interest of Pittsburgh district fans. Greensburg won the W. P. I. A. L. title last season. Washington High opens at home with Coraopolis.

Practically every high school eleven in Pittsburgh will be in action next Friday, when the Section 1 and Section 2 races in the City League get under way.

WASHINGTON OPENS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 22.—Hank Day's champion Washington High School football team will launch its season here this afternoon in a game with Coraopolis High, a team that last year pushed the Little Presidents to the limit. Wshington will go into the contest without the services of Capt. Weaver, center, who has been taken with intestinal "flu" and may be out for some time.

Coraopolis has a veteran team, while Washington, remade, is in the process of building. Cal Bolster will referee and Al Slack will be umpire.

GRAYS IN TWIN BILL.

The Homestead Grays are playing a doubleheader with the Baltimore Black Sox at Forbes Field this afternoon after winning the first battle of the three-game series last evening, 8 to 7, in eight innings. Streeter was the winning pitcher.

Van Ryn-Mangin Net Victors

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Two youthful tennis teams from the Atlantic seaboard stroked their way into the semi-final round of the United States intersectional team championships yesterday when they overpowered two just as youthful combinations from the West on the turf courts of the Chicago Town and Tennis Club.

The flashy Eastern pair of Johnny Van Ryn, former Princeton net ace and Greggory Mangin, disturber of Cochet in the National singles tournament, eliminated Harris Coggeshall of Des Moines, and Ten Eggeman of St. Louis, the Missouri Valley youngsters. The Middle States team of Fritz Mercur and Sam Gilpin put the New England representatives, Frank Luce and Holbrook Hyde, out of the running.

Van Ryn and Mangin won their matches in straight sets, but not until the former Princeton racket wielder had been forced to two deuce sets to defeat Coggeshall, 8-6, 7-5.

Having clinched the match by taking the two singles events, the Easterners made a clean sweep by defeating Coggeshall and Eggeman in the doubles, 5-7, 6-0, 6-2.

In the other singles event, Mercur outlasted Hyde to win 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, while his teammate, Gilpin, was downing Luce in two hard-fought sets, 8-6, 7-5.

Hyde and Luce got revenge in the doubles when they defeated Mercur and Gilpin, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Today's matches bring George Lott and John Hennessey against the Middle States team and the Australians opposing the Eastern combination in the semi-final round.

FRENCH TEAM LEADS

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—A French team, led by Henri Cochet, led Canada's representatives, three matches to one, at the conclusion of the first day of their two-day team tennis competition here yesterday.

Canada scored its only victory in the singles when Dr. Arthur Hamm, of Toronto, defeated Christian Boussus, young Frenchman, 8-6, 6-2.

Cochet defeated Williard Crocker, of Montreal, in easy fashion, 6-3, 6-2. Pierre Landry defeated Gilbert Nunns, of Toronto, only after he had been given a torril battle, the young Frenchman finally pulling out the match at 6-3, 4-6, 9-7. In the doubles Landry and Boussus defeated Nunns and Hamm, 10-8, 2-6, 6-0.

Today Jack Wright, Canada's ranking number one player, will meet Cochet in the singles, Nunns meeting Boussus and Hamm clashing with Landry. In the doubles Wright and Crocker will meet Cochet and Boussus.

TOOLE LEAGUE RACE TIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The International League fight now has been narrowed to Buffalo, the champion and leader, and Rochester, the challenger and runner-up. The season ends tomorrow.

The standing today was:

	W.	L.	Pct.	Games to Play.
Buffalo	90	76	.542	2
Rochester	86	74	.538	4

If Rochester wins all four of their remaining games, double-headers today and tomorrow at Montreal, it will take the flag regardless of what Buffalo does in two against Toronto. Three victories out of four by Rochester will surpass an even break by Buffalo. If Buffalo should drop two, Rochester could make the season end in a tie. Today's games cannot determine the winner.

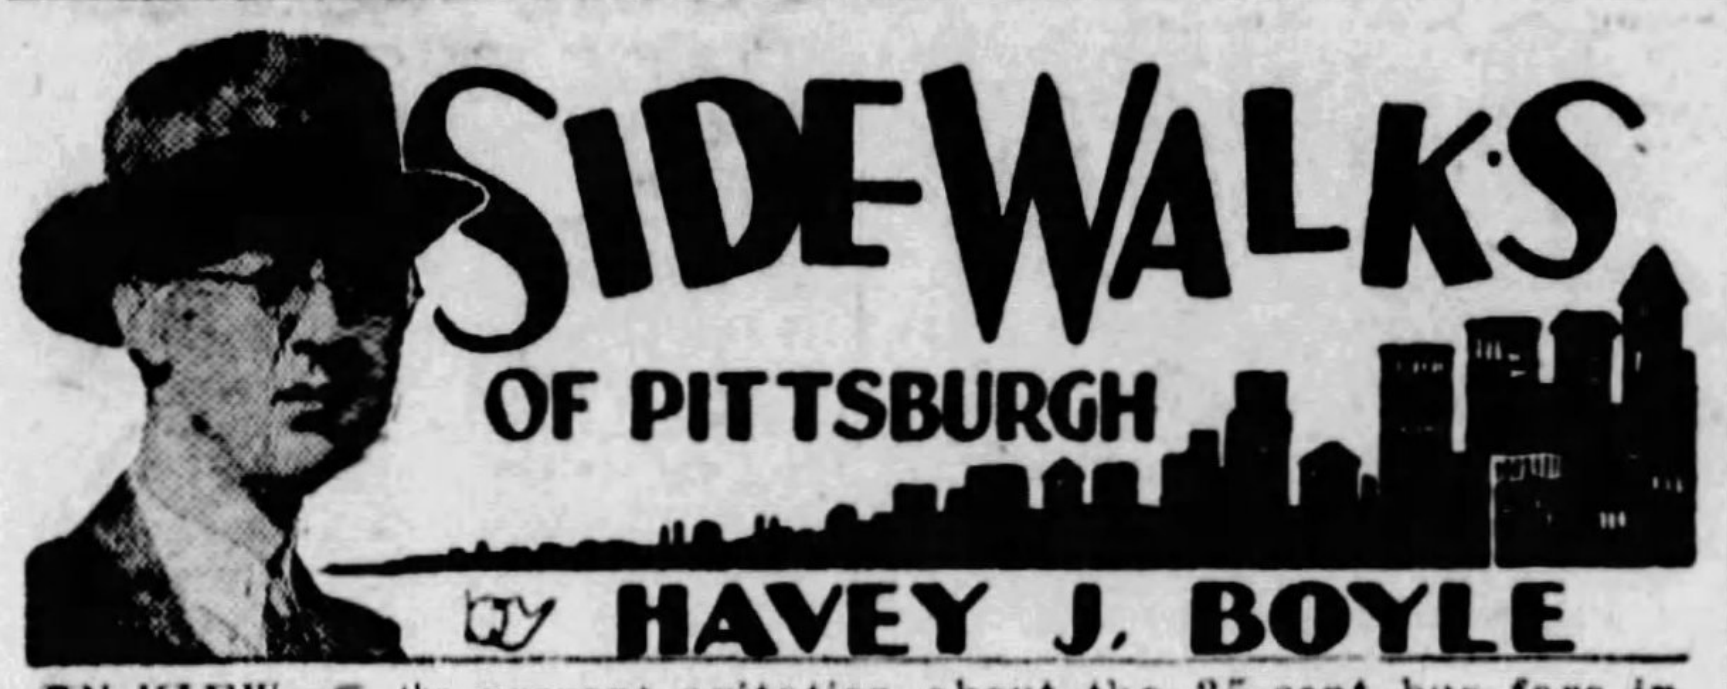
MRS. WILLEBRANDT GIVES SEIZED RUM TO STORM ILL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt has answered an appeal of Red Cross officials in Florida for liquor by telegraphing United States marshals at Jacksonville and Miami to turn over to the Red Cross all liquor that had been seized and was subject to disposal by United States authorities.

A telegram from Red Cross officials yesterday told Mrs. Willebrandt that hundreds of ill and injured were in need of stimulants.

The liquor to be turned over to the Red Cross will be that which has been seized and has been ordered disposed of by the courts. Her telegram to the marshals told them to see that the delivery of the liquor was made at once and that it include all stores suitable for use by the Red Cross.



SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

IN VIEW of the present agitation about the 25-cent bus fare in Pittsburgh a bit of history may be interesting.

There was a great deal of commotion in town when the first "rapid-transit" line was established in 1859. Prior to that time the villagers used hacks when they did not care to walk.

The horse-car was greeted with much enthusiasm when it first appeared. The newspapers of the day saw many benefits accruing from the innovation.

"In a system like this," said one elated editorial writer, "the horses travel slowly and evenly and as anyone knows who has ever ridden in such cars in Boston, Philadelphia and New York, it is hardly necessary to make a stop to permit passengers to alight. The car itself is about the size of an omnibus. We think, that to persons of limited means, who find it too expensive to live in the city, this convenient mode of travel will give them special advantages, and will allow them to live in sunshine and pure air, at the same time get cheaper rates."

The first trip of a horse car was an event of great civic importance. Two dozen prominent and forward-looking citizens, attired in frock coats and two-gallon hats, and adorned with a variety of whiskers, gaily waved their 'kerchiefs out the horse-car windows to celebrate the maiden voyage.

THE thing was a success right from the jump-off. Business was so good, in spite of faltering opposition from omnibuses, that the horse-car ran as late as 10 o'clock at night.

But the town was growing and the people voiced the old complaint of waiting too long for horse cars. Then, in the early eighties, came the first cable cars. There were six companies operating these lines. A huge, wire endless cable laid in a channel of the street, was attached and detached by the operator of the street car. But there was trouble about turns and switches and about 10 years after the cable car Pittsburghers stepped into the first electric trolley.

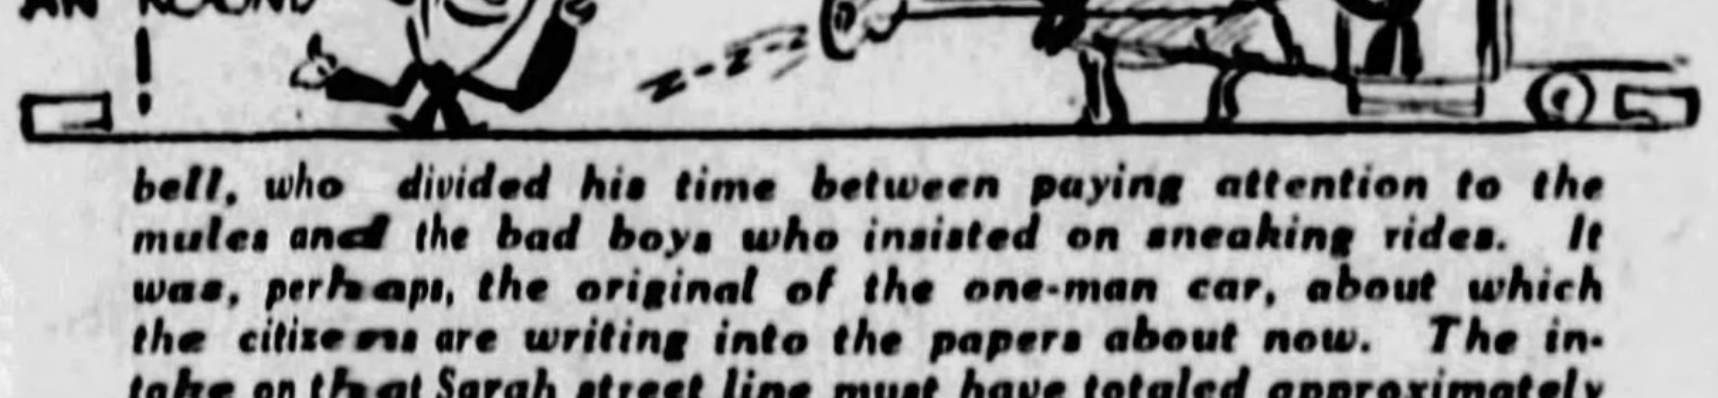
The last horse car vanished when the tracks on Sarah street were abandoned by the railways company. Prior to this abandonment, a horse car was used to "hold the charter." It started out as a horse car, but in its waning days it belied its name, for the horse power had been changed into mule power. The driver was a patient gentleman named Campbell, who divided his time between paying attention to the mules and the bad boys who insisted on sneaking rides. It was, perhaps, the original of the one-man car, about which the citizens are writing into the papers about now. The intake on that Sarah street line must have totaled approximately $1 a year. The best customers were gents a little pie-eyed who for the novelty and refreshing change insisted on making round trips.



AH·· SAY I WANT TO RIDE 'ROUND AN' 'ROUND !

ADVENT of the electric car, of course, caused the citizens to snicker at the horse-drawn vehicles. The horse-drawn affairs were good for nothing better than four or five miles an hour. The electric trolleys were capable of 15 miles an hour and this was considered in 1890 as something approaching "flying."

Now the trolleys seem to be giving way to automobile busses, as the current agitation over the high fares seem to reveal.

There is this to be said in favor of the trolleys, however. Strap-hanging in a trolley is a great luxury to strap-hanging in a bus. By great skill a trolley strap-hanger can manipulate himself so as to keep out of the lap of the fat lady hard by, but in a bus—a gentleman able to keep his aplomb, so to speak, would have no difficulty doing tricks in the rings and on the trapeze for Barnum and Bailey.

3,500 FLOCK TO LEARN COOK LORE; GET GIFTS

Florenz Ziegfeld has glorified the modern American girl. But it remained for Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree, expert in home economics, to glorify the modern woman—the home maker. That Mrs. Crabtree is making a fine effort in doing so was apparent to the 3,500 or more persons who crowded Soldiers' Memorial Hall last night at the closing session of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Free Cooking School.

Last night's event was as big a meeting as was ever held in the hall, the soldier-custodians said. And it must have been, for every available space was occupied. Hundreds were standing; several hundred more were unable to gain admittance. As early as 5:30 o'clock women began to assemble for the evening class, scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock. An interesting feature about the large audience was that it contained a large number of men.

"If we are living in a jazz age, let's jazz up our work, too," Mrs. Crabtree declared in her lecture, "A New Day," which opened the night session.

HOUSEKEEPING IMPROVES

Then she exclaimed.

"In spite of tons of cold cream, lipstick and bridge parties, the modern woman is a better housekeeper than her mother was—this because the modern woman is more scientific, has more resources at her command and runs her home with her head instead of her hands."

The climax of the night's session was the presenting of the five major awards that were given away.

A General Electric refrigerator went to Mrs. M. Matteo, of 29 Elm way.

Mrs. H. Morley, of 608 Crawford street, Duquesne, received a Tappan gas range.

A Hoosier kitchen cabinet was given to Mrs. K. Clemolonski, of 33 South Fifth street, Duquesne.

Mrs. Myrtle Ewing, of 7000 Frankstown avenue, received a set of Wear-Ever kitchen utensils.

A Dover electric iron was presented to Mrs. Edith S. Thomson, of 2340 Perrysville avenue.

In addition to these major gifts, scores of other presents were given away at both the afternoon and night sessions. These included market baskets, filled with groceries and including two admission tickets for the Stanley Theater next week. The attraction at the Stanley Theater next week, it was announced, will be the sound film, "The Whip," with Cecil Lean and

AL JOLSON MARRIES FOR HIS THIRD TIME

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Al Jolson embarked on the White Star liner Olympic early today for his umpteenth trip across the Atlantic and his third cruise on the matrimonial seas.

Occupying the Prince of Wales suite on the liner with the prince of blackface comedians was Jolson's third wife, the former Ruby Keeler, 19, tap dancer in musical comedies and night clubs. They were married yesterday at Port Chester, N. Y., but news of the marriage was kept secret until they were recognized on the Olympic just before the liner sailed.

Jolson had wished to be married at sea by the Olympic's captain, but company regulations had made this impossible.

Noted especially as a singer of "Mammy" songs, Jolson has been starred for 13 years. He is one of the world's wealthiest actors.

The comedian's first wife was Miss Henrietta Keller, whom he married in 1906 at Oakland, Cal. They were divorced there in 1919. Three years later he married Miss Alma Osborne, known on the stage as Ethel Delmar. She obtained a divorce in Paris in 1926.

MACHINES JUNKED

This slot machin, one of 28 seized in raids by city detectives, will jingle in no more quarters. WHAT, NO RUM? AGENTS RAID

Although three men were drinking whisky in a saloon at 140 South Eighteenth street, late yesterday, a bartender told prohibition agents that no liquor was being sold when they asked to buy a drink, the agents said.

They didn't believe him, however, and, upon searching the place, reported finding large quantities of moonshine and homebrew. Albert A. Dapper, 42, arrested as the proprietor, and Roman Klawinski, 38, were released on $1,000 bond each.

A saloon at 4500 Butler street, diagonally across the street from the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh, yielded 20 pints of whisky, 235 cases of homebrew, 100 gallons of beer mash and other beer-making equipment, raiders reported. Alex J. Sekely, 42, was arrested.

Laundry Bag Poor Bank, Robbers Get $250

Answering a knock on her door, Mrs. Mary Jones, a Negro, of 5749 Pierce street, was held up by two men who pointed revolvers at her and demanded money, last night. Mrs. Jones reported that she gave them $250 which she had concealed in a laundry bag, police at the Squirrel Hill station said.

Both are charged with being suspicious persons. Police say they saw the two men and two others quarreling over a stolen car at Catavia and Oakwood streets. Coker is said to have drawn a revolver to fire at one of the others when the gun was accidentally discharged and the bullet struck Moore, his companion. The others escaped.

$150,000 NEW AIM; WORKERS MAY GO

Pittsburgh's quota for Red Cross relief in the hurricane-stricken districts of Florida and Porto Rico has been raised to $150,000 and Red Cross workers here are asked to be prepared for field duty.

The orignal quota of $60,000 was increased by a telegram received by Chairman A. K. Oliver of the Red Cross chapter from the national headquarters as news from stricken areas indicated the real magnitude of the disaster.

Nearly $10,000 was the amount contributed yesterday through the Pittsburgh Red Cross chapter. The tabulation this morning gave the total to date as $18,215.50.

The telegram increasig the local quota, signed by Judge James Barton Payne, read as follows:

"First surveys in both Porto Rico and Florida disasters received at midnight by cable and telephone indicate that the needs in both places far exceed preliminary estimate.

"In Porto Rico 400,000 are destitute and near to starvation with grave health problems and threatened epidemics.

"Refugees must be fed, clothed and sheltered by the Red Cross for a long emergency period.

"In Florida 15,000 families require immediate emergency aid and later rehabilitation. Five million dollars will be the absolute minimum required as the relief fund.

"This places your chapter quota at $150,000.

"Am confident when the people of your community realize the grave need that the response will be immediate and generous. We urge you to bend every effort to exceed this quota if possible."

GERMAN AIRSHIP WON'T BRING ANY BEER IN

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Successful tests having been made on the "Graff Zeppelin," the big new dirigible, now will be equipped for her flight to America. It is planned to start the trans-Atlantic journey about October 20.

Members of the crew have been informed that when they reach the other side they will have to do without the usual supply of Germany's national malt beverage. In order not to conflict with the prohibition laws of the United States, it has been decided to ship among the stores only sufficient beer to last the crew en route. The Zeppelin, therefore, will enter the American zone as a "dry" airship.

Much of the ability to get away promptly will depend upon prompt supplies of "blue gas," the new fuel which is relied upon to carry the vessel across the ocean. It probably will be at least a fortnight before sufficient of this gas can be produced to meet the dirigible's needs.

Will Rogers Says

Bryan was listened to and cheered by more people than any single human in politics and he lost. So there is a doubt just whether talking does you good or harm.

Diana Heartbroken When Mrs. Evart Invites Her to Daughter's Wedding

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

On his first day in Manor Park, where he is to apply the business methods learned in college, Benjamin Carrington Black has occasion to observe three of the suburban town's most alluring examples of feminity. Unnoticed by men, he sees Diana Rand—nineteen and pretty, enter a jewelry store with her friend, Beatrice Sheldon, whose trailing dress is reminiscent of the Gay Nineties. In the store Diana and Bea encounter Ann Evarts, a trim, petite person. Ann in Diana's roadster sees Noddy and Toddy and Norman Gregory and leaves Diana and Beatrice to join them. Bea and her brother, Freddie, prepare for the party at the Yacht Club. And before leaving their parents warn them to behave like "Sheldons." Freddie calls for Ann, whose mother had just told her she must marry soon or go to work. Benny also attends the party where Diana and her friends meet him. It is a gay affair, with Diana being the life of it. Benny is fascinated by the quiet Ann, who makes believe that she does not like "wild" parties. Diana, after the party, tells her mother all about Benny. She meets him several times and falls in love with him. Mrs. Evarts is anxious that her daughter, Ann, fall in love with Benny. However, he is afraid he is falling in love with Diana. Ann tells Norman that Beatrice has a past. At North Lake where the crowd are for a week, Norman questions Bea about her past and she confesses. He then asks her to marry him. Diana saves Benny from drowning while at North Lake. Diana dreams of the future when Benny professes his love for her. The crowd goes to a party, while Benny and Ann are left in camp, after Ann feigns illness. When the crowd returns Benny wonders how to explain being alone with Ann.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

AND it had done more, though he was not to realize this for a very long time. Some quality in Diana's amazement, accentuated perhaps by certain quick glances, half-concealed smiles of the others, had planted a seed of doubt in his mind and the doubt centered about Ann.

It was so vague that he could not grasp the reason for it and his thought kept scurrying in a dim bewilderment. Throughout his relationship with Ann this doubt was to be like a malignant growth, forgotten at times, passed over and ignored, but, in the end, claiming the power to destroy.

Once in his roaming he stood beside the bungalow, aware that almost he might reach out and touch Diana on the other side of the window screen. He wished to speak to her—ask her to solve the mystery of this thing which had drawn about him. He felt someway she could do this, lift him above confusion, set him right with himself. The level gray eyes—how honest they were! A fearless, wholesome personality. . . .

Benny caught himself up in amazement. Only a few hours ago he had not believed this; he had seen Diana as a willful soul seeking thrills at any price. What had changed him? Or had she changed?

Depression weighed him; now he would have liked to put his face down on her sturdy young shoulder, to feel her hands on his head in the motherly little carees she had given him as she said goodby in the afternoon.

Too late for this; fate had given him sealed orders. Well—carry on . . . carry on. . . .

The week after the party returned to Manor Park was a strain for everybody excepting, possibly, Ann and her mother. They were friendly for the first time in their life together, mutually admiring, though the girl was beginning to put on small airs. "When I am Mrs. Black," was the burden of all her remarks and many a change was to be brought about, many a wish to be realized when that time came. And it was to be soon; Ann and Hanna agreed on this. A month at the longest. . . .

Hanna had an interview with the hotel manager and, as a result, the Evarts moved into the suite whose sitting room had received Benny Black on his first visits. The manager was delighted to make this arrangement—and he understood perfectly why the bill would be settled later.

A like interview with the manager of the town's exclusive little specialty shop made it possible to purchase lingeringly, with many haughty demands for what was most expensive, Ann's trousseau—on credit.

And Hanna curtly resigned her post at the settlement house, leaving Mrs. Sheldon first bemused, then furious. "The designing creature!" snorted that good lady. "To think I let her pull the wool over my eyes—my eyes!" repeated Mrs. Sheldon with a baleful glare of those organs.

But the Sheldons had something more important than the marriage of "that chit," as now they described Ann, to think about. There was the shocking conduct of their own daughter. . .

"That's enough," Norman flung at their cold rage. "You've done all you could to break her spirit. And now she is my wife, and you will regard her as such—with the consideration one human being owes another."

Freddie muttered, "Fair enough," and slinked out of sight. And Beatrice all at once lost the stoop to her shoulders, the droop to her lips. It was the happiest hour she ever had known when Norman took her to a new little stucco house set in an immense stretch of landscaped ground up the hill and across the northern end of town from the Sheldon estate. For weeks afterward she hardly dared breathe lest she awake and find all that had happened a dream.

Benny Black also had moments when he seemed to be living in a dream—only he feared the dream would dissipate and become reality, as, of course, it always did. Ann was proving an engaging little fiancee, lovely and winsome, always considerate of him and his interests. Nearly every evening he called at the hotel, sent her flowers, candy, bits of jewelry. But he was abstracted; even in the office his mind wandered and he would find himself drawing little winged slippers, over and over.

The conviction formed in his mind that this should not go on. At least the marriage must be postponed, put off till they were a little better acquainted, more sure of themselves.

But he could not bring himself to suggest this. Ann's helplessness, her bubbling, childish happiness—these held him. She needed him so! Bit by bit, with a hint here, a look there, she had contrived to make him believe. Hanna was unkind to her, not all a mother should be.

He could not desert Ann. And slowly he settled to acquiesence, feeling a deep pride in Ann's beauty, developing a loyal affection for her.

And Diana pursued a feverish round of gayety these days, growing rather thin, rather white-faced, smoking too much, drinking more of Daddy's cocktails than had been her wont. Only late at night, after returning from some mad party, did she admit to herself that she was tired; weary of a living so complex.

Then she would slip a creased and finger-worn envelope from a corner of the little desk in the room of mirrors, study the sketch across its back. Dancing feet lifting on Mercury wings....

"Oh, my dear," she would whisper then. "Oh, my dear!"

CHAPTER XVIII.

THERE was a day when Diana brought a package from the jewelry shop, not exultantly as she had brought the dancing girl, but thoughtfully, with lagging steps.

She carried it to the room of mirrors, placed it on the little desk beside a sheet of heavy white paper engraved with what Benny Black might have considered his sealed orders: "Mrs. James Lowell Evart has the honor of inviting Miss Diana Rand"—

It would be a church affair, "just a simple, sweet little wedding for a simple, sweet little bride," Hanna told everybody. Yet her preparations were elaborate—leaving out only the matter of a bridal party.

"She didn't dare," Diana told herself. "A fine time digging up bridesmaids they'd have."

Once the tissue wrappings were removed, there stood on the little desk a silver bowl, a lovely, graceful flower holder, exquisite as a poem, across one side the beautifully chased figure of a winged Mercury.

Diana looked at it a long time and her eyes were somber. With a small, hopeless movement of her hands, a tiny shrug, she seated herself, drew a blank card from a pigeonhole, caught up a scarlet quill.

But the pen hung inert while anger kindled, blazed in the girl's face. All at once she wrote swiftly, fiercely: "He is too good for you! You won him by trickery—by lies—lies—lies."

The quill stopped. Diana studied what she had written, read it with amazement. Had she gone mad? This was what she believed—not what she must put on the card. Incredible that she could have done this! Watch herself hereafter; not the role of the woman scorned for Diana Rand. She would be proud, ignore Ann's triumph, Benny's perfidy . . .

The card was torn across, dropped in the wastebasket, and another prepared in the conventional, meaningless terms of good will. But Diana felt her nerves jangle, sobs tearing at her throat. Blindly groping her way, she stumbled from the room, down the stairs, into the library, where Daddy Rand and Millicent were sitting together; threw herself into her father's arms.

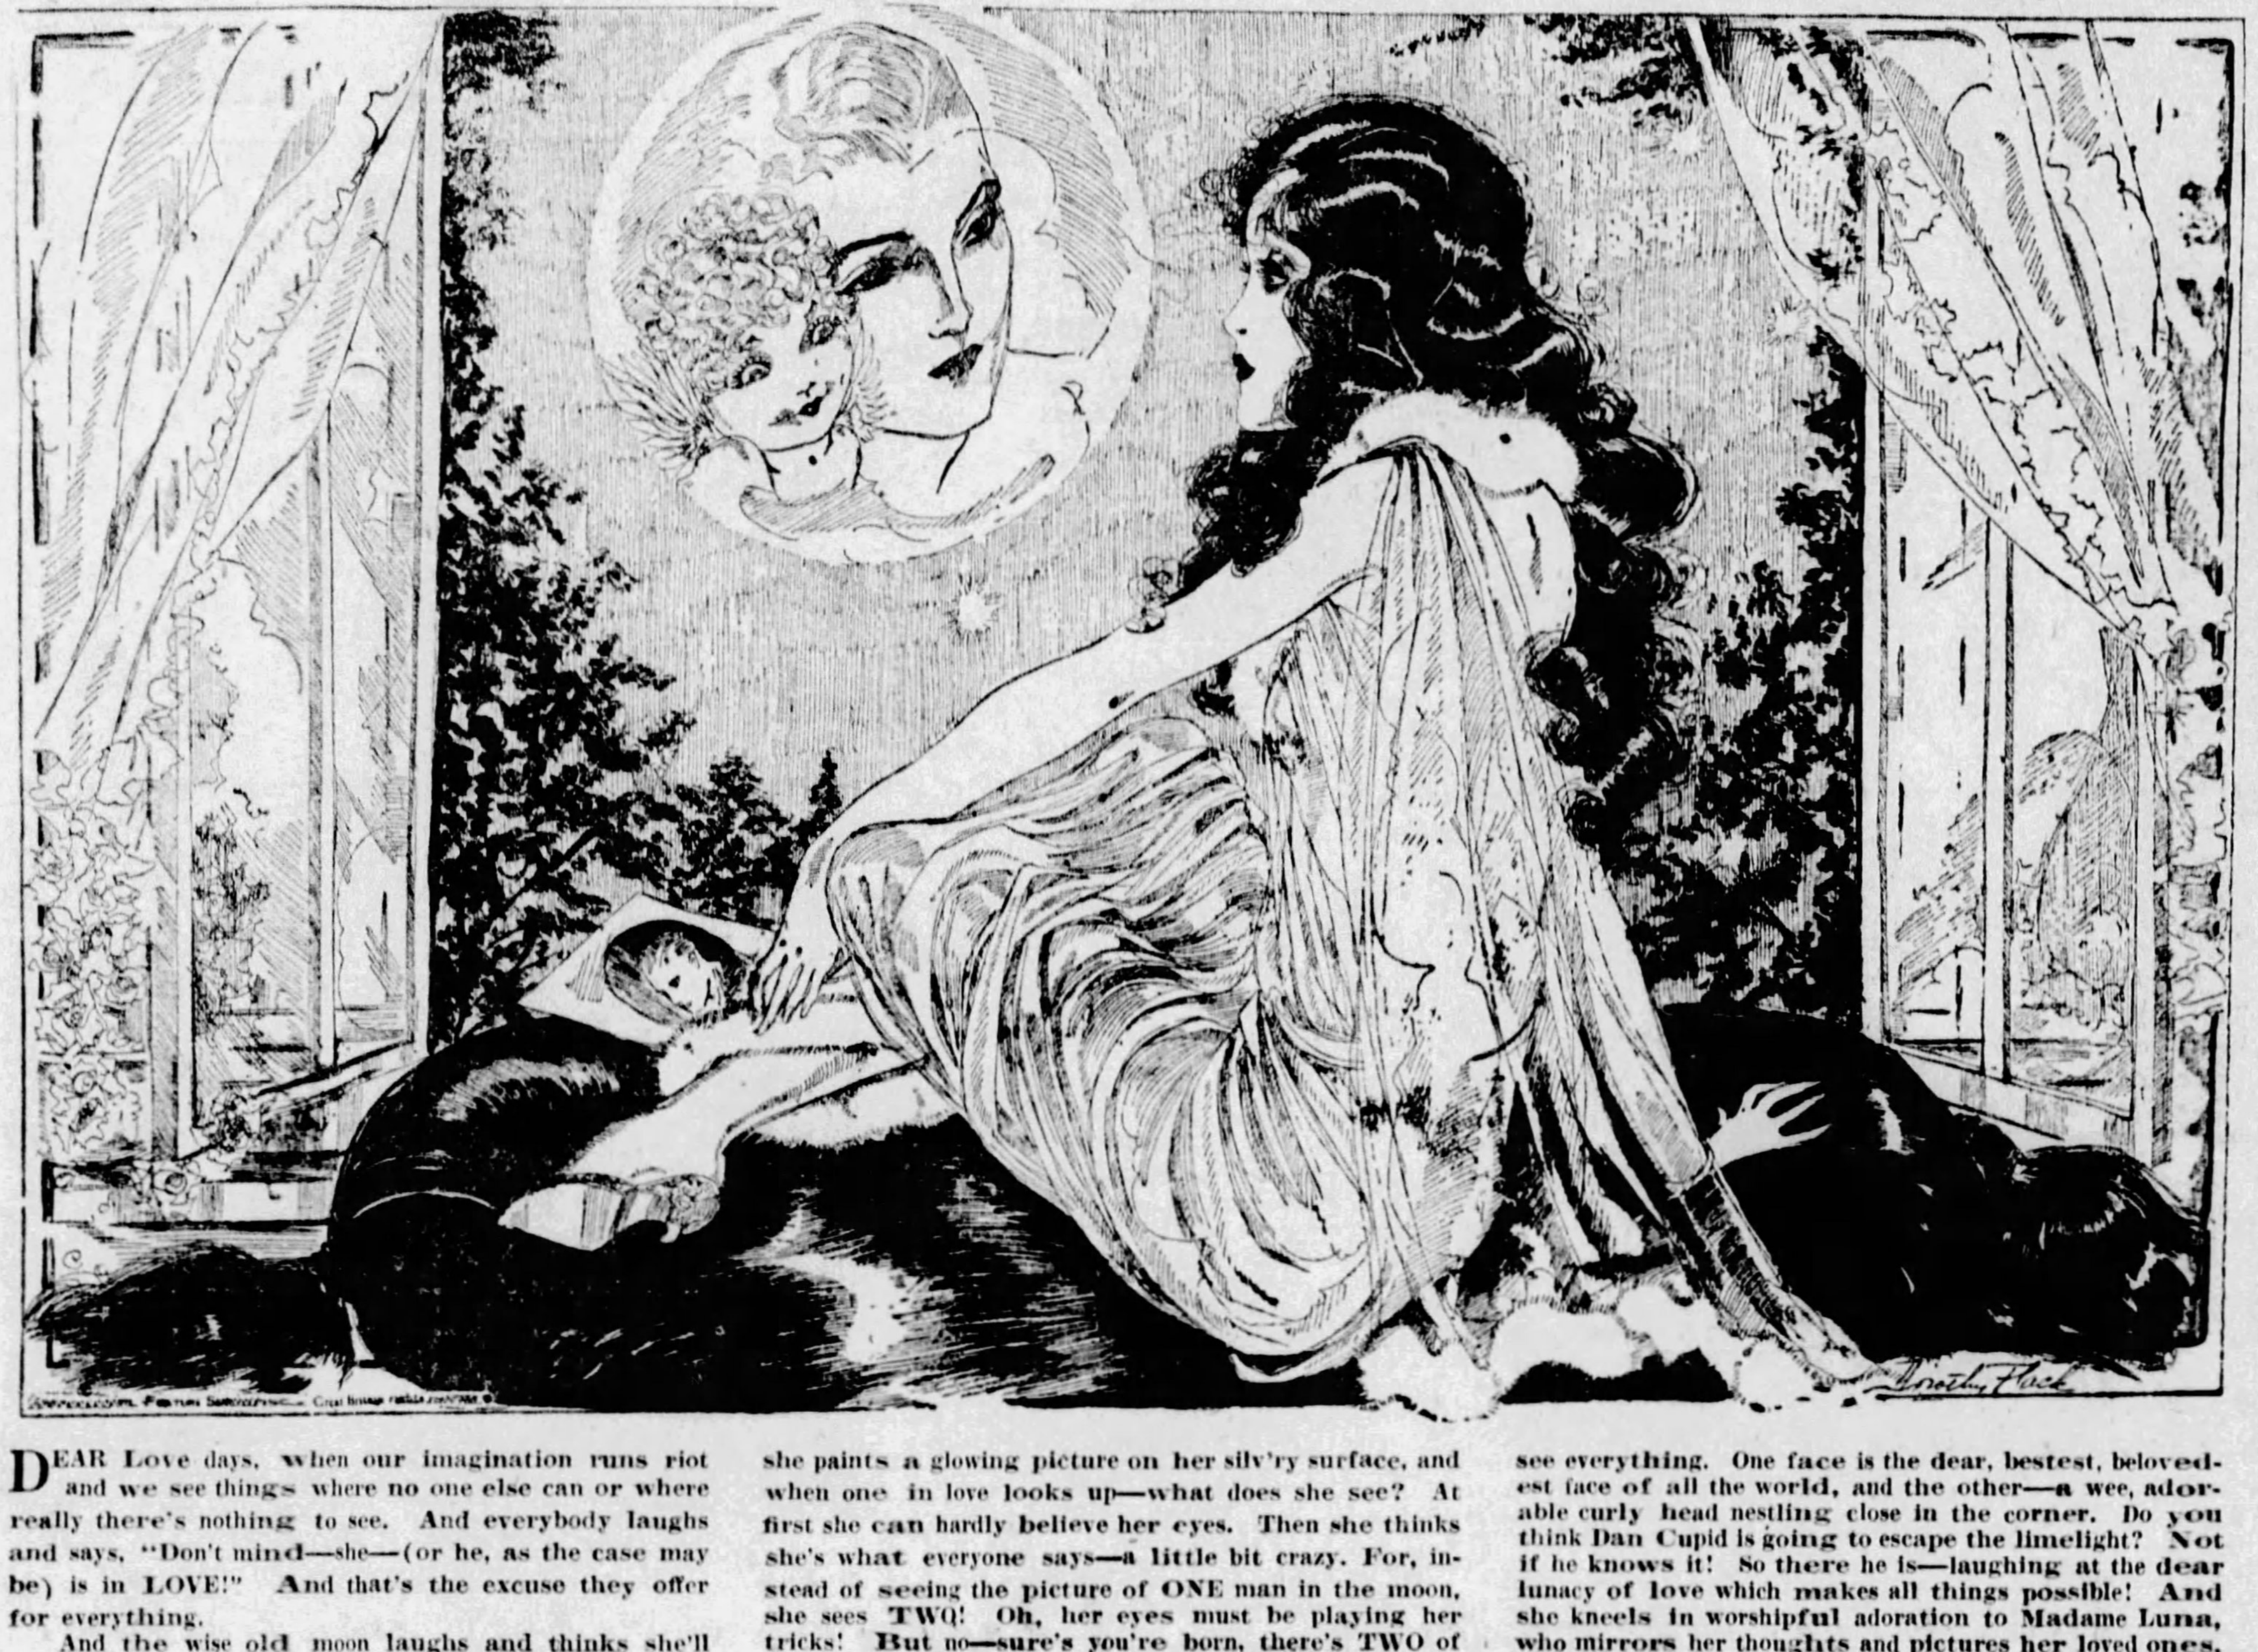
LOVE'S LUNACY -:- -:- -:-

Drawn by Dorothy Flack



DEAR Love days, when our imagination runs riot and we see things where no one else can or where really there's nothing to see. And everybody laughs and says, "Don't mind—she—(or he, as the case may be) is in LOVE!" And that's the excuse they offer for everything.

And the wise old moon laughs and thinks she'll add further to the general opinion, so instead of The Man in the Moon, who's lived there for ages and ages, she paints a glowing picture on her silv'ry surface, and when one in love looks up—what does she see? At first she can hardly believe her eyes. Then she thinks she's what everyone says—a little bit crazy. For, instead of seeing the picture of ONE man in the moon, she sees TWO! Oh, her eyes must be playing her tricks! But no—sure's you're born, there's TWO of them there, as plain as plain!

No one else sees it, to be sure, but the eyes of love see everything. One face is the dear, bestest, belovedest face of all the world, and the other—a wee, adorable curly head nestling close in the corner. Do you think Dan Cupid is going to escape the limelight? Not if he knows it! So there he is—laughing at the dear lunacy of love which makes all things possible! And she kneels in worshipful adoration to Madame Luna, who mirrors her thoughts and pictures her loved ones. Lunacy? Who cares! She's in love, and that's all that matters!

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

Philip Veritzen Reveals His Hopeless Love for a Princess

AS Philip Veritzen's resonant voice, vibrant with emotional remembrance of his youthful romance, trailed away into silence, I found myself sitting tensely upright, my fingers digging into the arms of my chair.

"What a story!" I told myself, with visions of the headlines that would have been put upon this tale if it had been told to newspaper reporters at the time of the Transvania queen's visit to America instead of now being confided to me. And what a choice morsel it would have been for the Broadway gossips whose appetites for piquant news rivals that of any small town sewing circle in the world!

For everyone who ever knew Philip Veritzen, or read about him, knew that his early life, before coming to America, was wrapped in mystery, and that no reference to it ever had been made by him. No one knew his nationality or his antecedents. But that he had been gently bred and well educated all conceded.

And now, he was unfolding to me the tragic romance of his youth when he, robbed of the right to wed a princess because of the bar sinister of his birth, yet had fallen in love with the beautiful girl destined to be the bride of the king, his second cousin by blood, though not by law.

He was sitting motionless, looking off into space, and I knew that his memory had spanned the gap between that time and this, and that again he was seeing the royal beauty who had roused the first strong emotion of his life. I did not dare to disturb his reverie, but I was breathlessly glad when after a minute he stirred and looked over at me with a bitter little smile.

"Is there anything in life so absurd or so sweet as a boy's first love?" he asked, then answered his own question emphatically. "It is the quintessence of moonshine and gossamer, but it is stronger than steel. And when, as was the case with me, the girl is so far above him in station as to make the winning of her unattainable, it does not lessen the emotion with which he regards her but only makes it more heartbreaking."

He bent forward and looked intently at me.

"I wonder if you can imagine the bitterness of the cup I was compelled to quaff each day," he said. "There I was, knowing that the young heir to the throne had the same blood as mine, knowing also—I can say it after these years without vanity—that he was my inferior in everything save position and wealth. And I was compelled to mask every word or action which could betray my love for my golden girl, while he could spend every minute of his time in her company if he wished and could woo her with all the glamorous advantages of his position.

"If he wished," Mr. Veritzen repeatedly slowly. "But bitterest drop of all in my cup, he did not need to woo her to make her his wife. Their marriage had been arranged by the powers of state without consulting the wishes of either of them. And though Olga was so young that the picture of no man had ever before been imprinted upon her heart, the affections of the prince were already engaged elsewhere and his cavalier treatment of the girl selected to be his future queen roused the indignation even of his own close comrades. You can imagine what rigid control I had to place over myself to keep from knocking him down and sending myself to prison or death.

"What intuition told the princess that I, the humblest and most quiet of the young officers detailed as her bodyguard, was the most whole-heartedly devoted to her, I do not know. But that she guessed it I was sure when she selected me as her single escort—save, of course—the grooms and attendants always within call—for the walks and rides with which she spiritedly busied herself, ignoring bravely the prince's neglect of her.

"It was heaven and hell at the same time to be with her. Heaven because I asked no greater boon than to serve her; hell, because I saw only too clearly that I was but a means of escape from the sorrowful humiliation which was hers, saw also that she loved the young prince, and felt no deeper emotion for me than she would for a faithful dog."

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

—By HELEN ROWLAND—

SO THIS IS MARRIAGE

MY DAUGHTER, consider the ties that bind a woman unto a man! For a husband around the house may be a distraction to the spirit, a thorn in the flesh, and a file upon the nerves. But when he departeth, there is only a VACUUM!

* * *

Go to. When a woman saith, "Alas, how I MISS dear Jorn?" she speaketh the truth from the depths of her heart, and every wife knoweth it.

HELEN ROWLAND

Lo, she misseth the rattle of his key in the latch at night—and the rustle of his newspaper at the breakfast table.

She misseth the sound of his song in the shower-bath—and his wild trumpetings when his foot slippeth upon the soap.

She misseth his morning peck upon the cheek and the invigorating fragrance of shaving soap upon his chin.

* * *

She misseth the excitement of lying awake and wondering where he is on Saturday night—and the wild delirium of finding his things and assembling for his departure on Monday mornings.

* * *

She misseth the melody of his cheerful whistle, when he is pounding and tinkering in the garage—and the sight of his smudged face and greasy hands, when she draggeth him from under the car to greet her guests.

She misseth his frown at the vision of the burned bacon or the overdone roast—and his groans at the reading of the monthly bills.

* * *

She misseth the tender thrill of putting his evening clothes in moth-balls—and the precious privilege of counting his laundry and cleaning the spots from his waistcoats.

She misseth the joy of running up bills in his name—and the wholesome fear of the consequences.

* * *

She misseth the daily reminder that his "Mother ran a whole household on less than the cost of a cook and a can-opener"—and his look of reproach when he discovereth the missing button on his pajamas.

* * *

She misseth the sweet solace of comforting him in his hours of anxiety and consoling him in his business grievances—and the flattery of knowing that it is to HER that he bringeth his problems and his worries.

* * *

She misseth the pride of boasting about him to other women—and the satisfaction of telling him her REAL opinion of him in private.

* * *

Yea, verily, she misseth him in a thousand and one ways! For it is not by an iron chain that a husband and wife are bound together, but by a thousand and one fine threads of habit and tenderness!

* * *

And this, my Beloved, is Marriage.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U.S. Senator from New York

Fancied Illness Bad as Real Thing

TO imagine you are sick is next door to being sick. So far as the immediate victim is concerned, it is just as bad as being sick. To the family and associates imaginary illness is worse than the real thing, because usually it is accompanied with greater vocal complaints and demands.

DR. COPELAND

There is a disturbance called by doctors "neurasthenia" or "psychothenia." The former word is from the Greek and means "debility of the nerves"; the other means "debility of the mind."

This ailment is an obstinate functional disturbance of the nervous system. That is, there is no destruction of tissue, no visible or measurable disease, no actual change in the body or any of its parts. But for one reason or another the body or its parts do not function, do not operate, do not work as they should.

We speak of the victim of this disagreeable condition as a "neurasthenic." The neurasthenic can't work, at least he can't work long, at his usual mental or physical job. He tires out almost at once, even though he may begin the day in good spirits and determined to apply himself.

There are many, many symptoms, all included in this unhappy state. The first is a tremendous exaggeration of himself, if you know what I mean. How he feels, what tender solicitude should be given him, what wealth of attention should be showered upon him—these are all he thinks about. You must listen to his tale of woe or he is hurt to the verge of tears.

The victim may suffer from one of the many "phobias" or fears—fear of a crowd, fear of a high building, fear of an east wind, fear of death, fear of some particular disease, fear of financial failure, fear of something.

He loses his will power. He cannot concentrate his thoughts. He has headache, backache, legache or some other ache. He can't eat and can't sleep. In short, he is a total wreck!

Of course, one cannot get this way without some substantial cause. It may be that overwork or overworry, some continued mental strain, or sudden emotional shock, may be responsible. But more likely chronic indigestion, absorption of bodily poisons, some hidden disease, is at the bottom of the trouble.

Every such patient should be carefully studied to see what is wrong. If there is such an unhappy person in your household, help the doctor by thorough study of the habits and symptoms.

Eyestrain, with the needed correction of vision or muscle balance, is a factor that must not be overlooked. Habits of sex, habits of eating and drinking, habits of hygiene—all these are important.

The simple life, simple eating, recreation, entertainment, are vital to all of us. They are doubly significant in dealing with a neurasthenic.

Horoscopes

Sunday, September 23

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds promise of recognition, honor fulfilled ambitions, following as a just return for industry and application as well as patience and endurance. Churchly dignities are enhanced and philanthropic enterprises also, but beware some slight enmities or intrigues.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of recognition and advancement following as reward for industry and perseverance. Prosperity and preferment are assured but be on guard against small worries and intrigues.

A child born this day may have many qualities fitting it for high place in life, with probable honors and good fortune wrung from its own application and industry. But small subtleties and worries may assail it.

If honor calls, where'er she points the way, the sons of honor follow and obey.—CHURCHILL.

Monday, September 24

MONDAY'S astrological map shows recognition, honors and preferment following the special talents and initiative wisely applied in their positions by those in the employment of others. These may flourish by secret understandings as well as from courageous stands and bold strokes, but at the same time there are tendencies to adopt methods of expediency when necessary. Personal affairs may not be harmonious or satisfactory.

Those whose birthday it is may look for advancement, preferment and honors in employment or in secret agreements. An active year is shown, but not one of personal satisfaction. Beware sinister methods.

A child born on this day may be clever and courageous as well as given to methods of expediency when necessary. It may reach high position, but should be schooled in probity and uprightness.

Ways That Encourage Friendship

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WE are living in an age of feminine frankness. Gone are the coy days, the demure blushes, the fluttering, fainting tendencies of the young lady of the great-grandmother's day. Modern girls and young men are pals. They work together, study together, play together and are chaperoned chiefly by their own self-respect and sense of the fitness of things.

Yet even in this era of comradeship of the sexes girls have an innate pride in being sought after and men still prefer to take the initiative in courtship. The girl who is hard to win is still the girl most sought when it comes to serious courtship and marriage.

"In Doubt" asks questions that are of interest to every girl who wishes to be modern without sacrifice of the sweetness and innate dignity that are every girl's birthright.

"Dear Miss Fairfax," she writes. "May I seek your ever-ready and helpful advice?

"What is the difference between 'properly encouraging' a young man and running after him? For example, would it be perfectly proper for a girl to invite a young man to whom she had been introduced to her home some evening when other friends were to be there? Suppose the young man in the case had been friendly, but had not asked to call—would her inviting him to her home come under the head of running after him?

"Would it be ethical to invite a young man I know rather well, who attends the same church I do, to dinner some Sunday after the services? Or is this forbidden according to Hoyle? This young man, also, has not asked to call.

"Should a girl always wait until the young man whose friendship she would enjoy, makes the first advance? I suppose if the young men were sufficiently interested, they would take the first steps toward establishing comradely friendships, wouldn't they? Then, too, if a girl and a boy have spent a congenial evening together, is it proper for the girl to ask him to call again on some definite date or suggest going some place together? Or is it all up to him?

"I would like to do exactly what is right, and nothing that would seem cheap or uncalled for. Therefore, will you please answer the above questions? I thank you.

"IN DOUBT."

Those are sensible, straightforward questions you ask, my dear, and I shall try to reply to them in the same spirit.

A woman has and should have the privilege of selecting her friends. For this reason it is quite appropriate and proper for a girl to suggest to a young man that he visit her. But if she has tact and good sense, she will not extend this invitation to a man who is obviously uninterested or to whom she has just been introduced.

It is also true that every man has the right to politely refuse better acquaintance and comradship a girl offers when she invites him to visit her. He can offer courteous excuses very calmly and insistently. And if she has delicacy and good sense, she will soon grasp the situation and let him alone.

When a man and women are throughly congenial, better acquaintance and pleasant comradship usually come about spontaneously, without studied effort on either side. A man who often talked with a girl away from her own home, and at the homes of other friends, might naturally, if she seemed to enjoy his company, ask permissioin to visit her at her own home. His next logical step in friendship, would be an invitation to the theater a concert or any entertainment they might both enjoy. Hers would be the privilege of encouraging the friendship by granting or refusing these requests.

The indifferent, icy pose is silly and affected. If you like a man, let him see it by your pleased appreciation of his attentions and interest. This encouragement is very different from silly, undignified pursuit.

Every man likes to feel he is liked by the girl he cares for. Do not be afraid to show friendly comradly interest. The man who misconstrues this spontaneous response to his own interest as running after him is so light-weight mentally as not to be worth worrying about.

So you see it will be perfectly proper to invite the young man you know rather well to your home. He may be waiting for just such an invitation from you. He may be a bit shy and so may hesitate to make the first advance. Ask him to come again, very cordially. But if he does not come, do not insist or try to force the friendship.

Your own good sense and good taste will tell you, I am sure, the difference between friendly, honest encouragement of a wholesome friendship and running after a man. It is only fair and gracious of a girl to go half-way in interesting and encouraging young men who are worth-while as comrades and friends.

WRITE ADS—WIN PRIZES!

$15,000.00

In PRIZES

For Winners of

The ZAIN
Ad Test

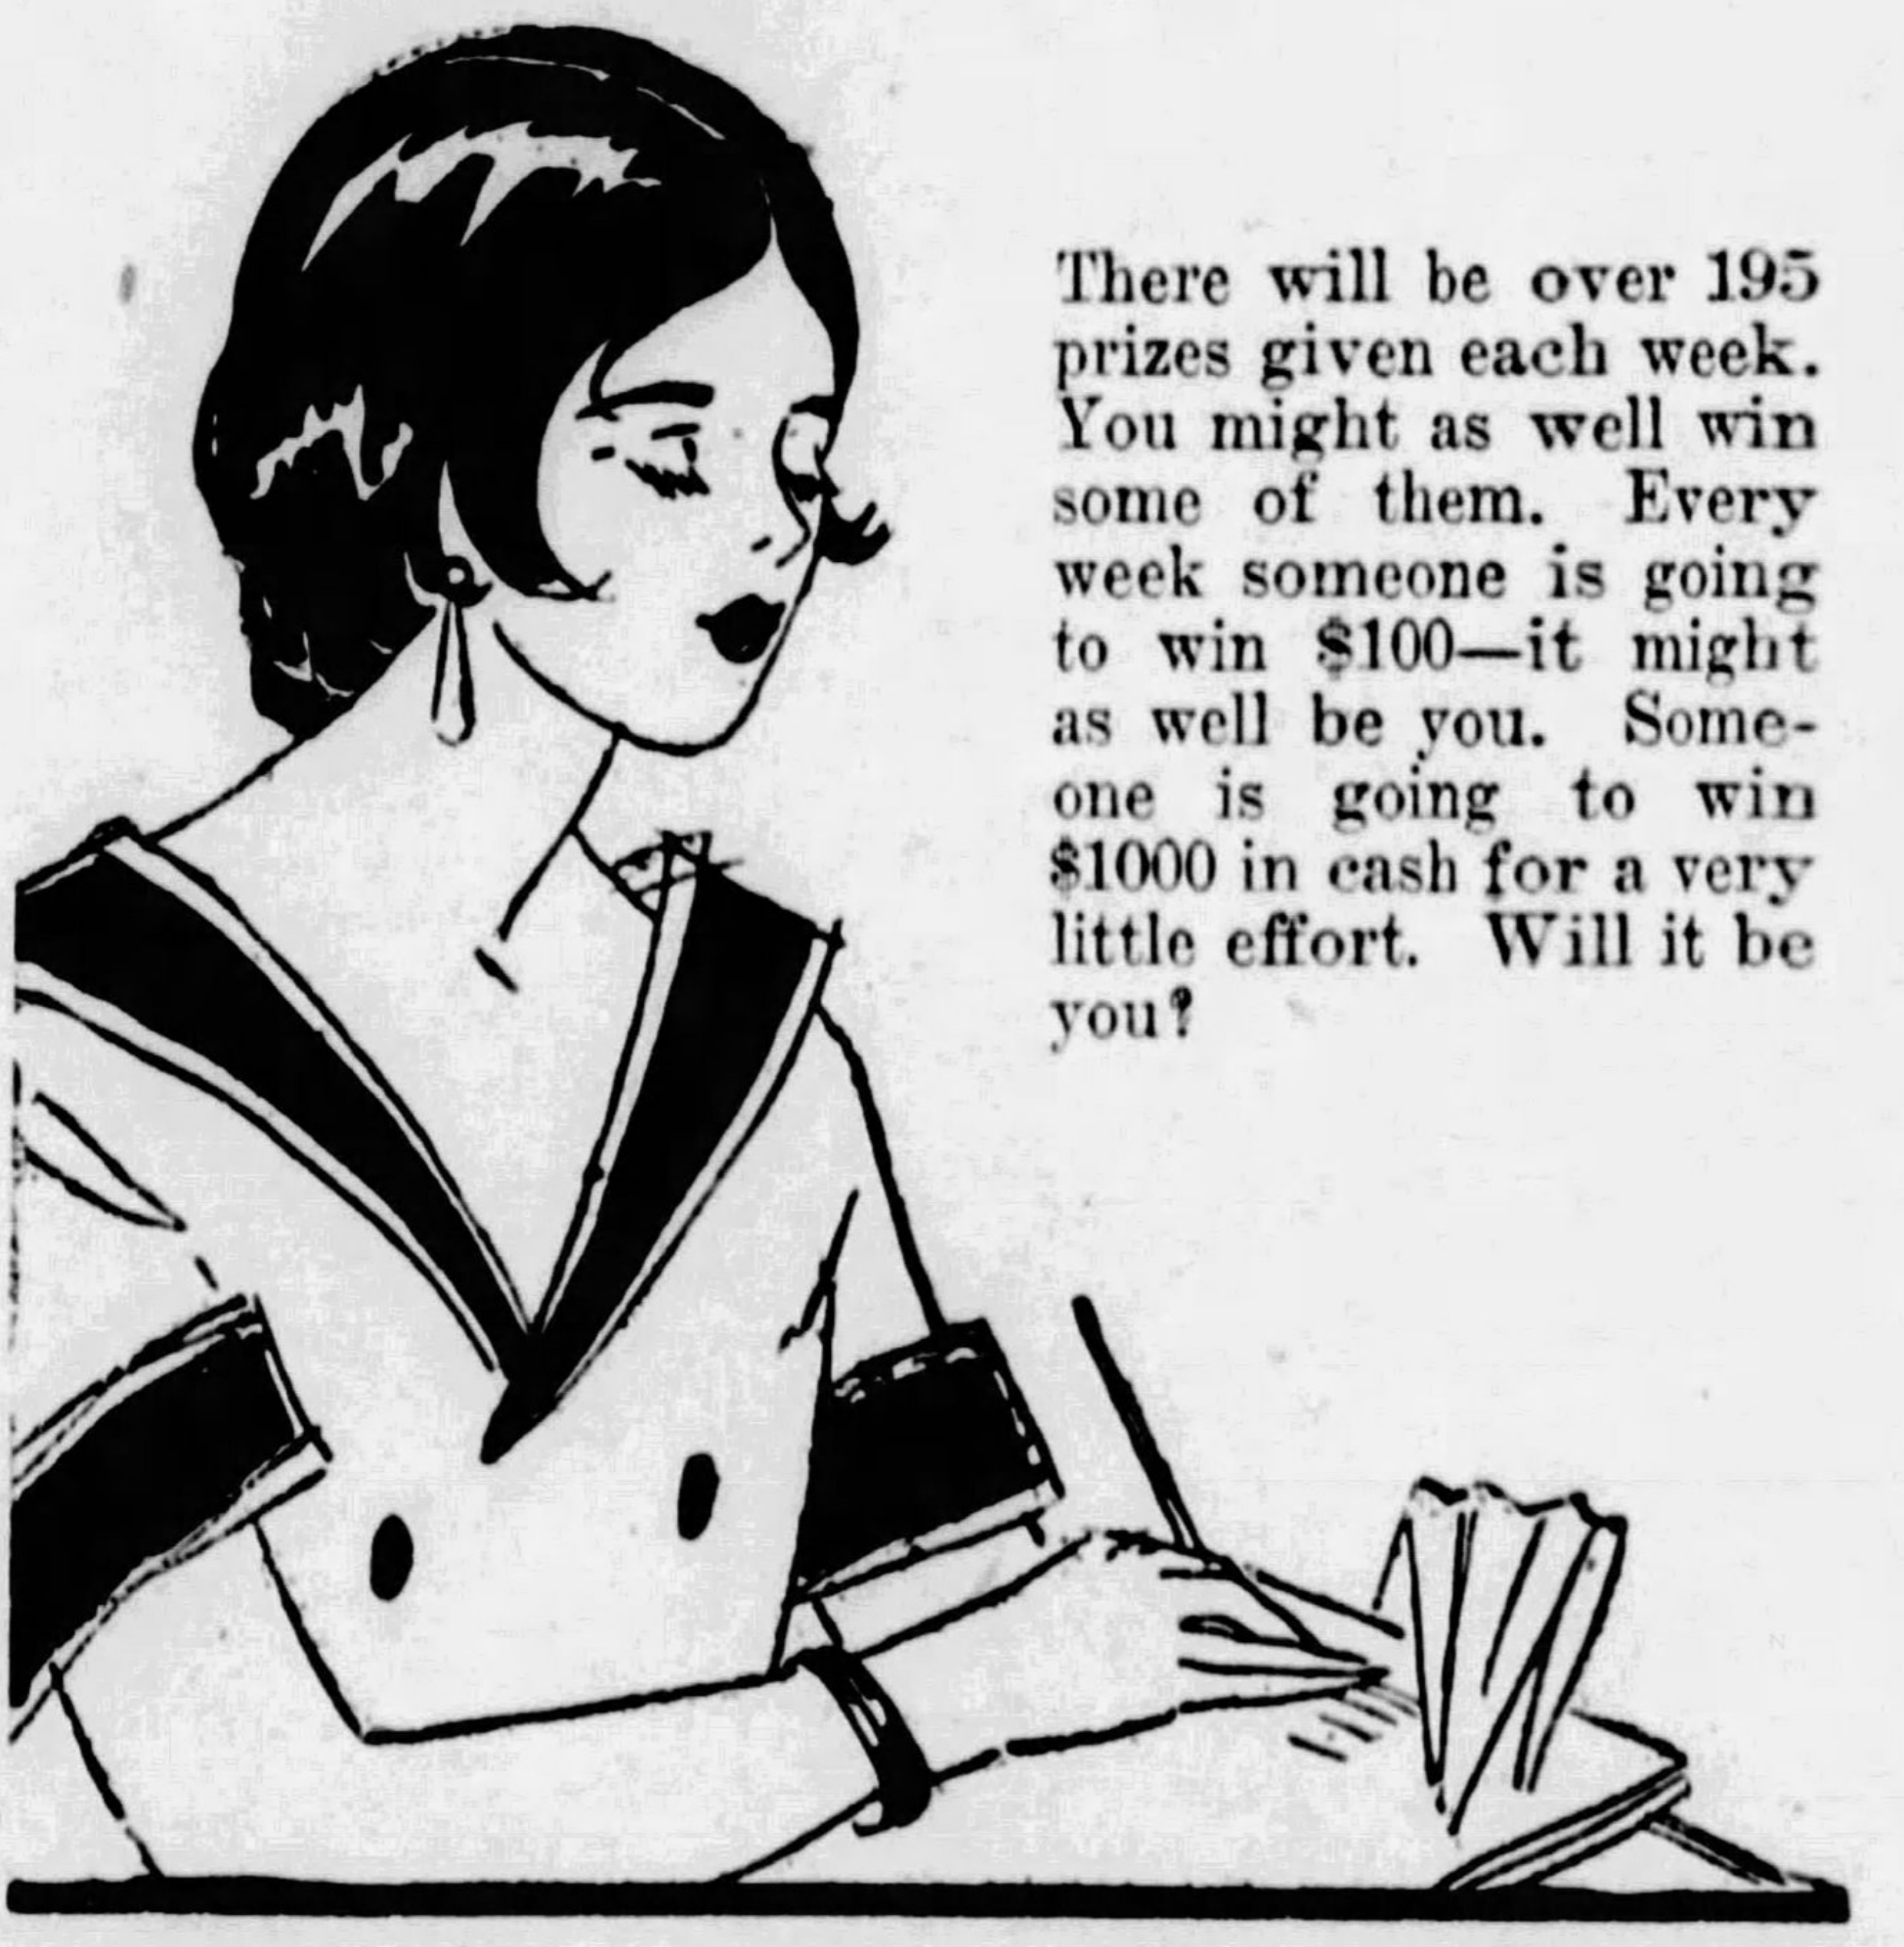
Easy—Interesting—Profitable

Many Valuable Prizes

Every week for six weeks over 195 valuable prizes will be given. Five prizes will be given each week for the five best ads written by the public on each one of the concerns co-operating in the campaign (the names of these concerns will be published tomorrow).

The best ad of all ads written each week will be awarded a $100 cash prize.

The best ad written during the entire campaign will be awarded $1000 in cash.



There will be over 195 prizes given each week. You might as well win some of them. Every week someone is going to win $100—it might as well be you. Someone is going to win $1000 in cash for a very little effort. Will it be you?

YOU read advertisements every day and you know you can write them. You do not know how well you can write ads until you try. This is a contest of educational value designed to bring out your ideas. No matter who you are—banker or baker, clergyman or clerk, merchant or mechanic, professor or painter, man, woman or child—you have ideas. It is most interesting to write your ideas, and no matter what you may think of their merits, send them in. The very idea or ad that might appear to you as being poorest might, in the opinion of the judges, be good, and win a prize, or even the grand prize of $1000 in cash. You will get a lot of fun out of seeing how well you can write ads. And—THERE IS $15,000 IN CASH AND MERCHANDISE PRIZES FOR WHICH TO COMPETE. You do not have to know anything at all about advertising (in fact, if you are a professional ad writer or newspaper man you cannot compete; this is strictly for the public).

Some Interesting Subjects

Here are a few of the many lines about which you may write in this campaign. A wide variety is covered to add zest and interest to your writing and to broaden your business knowledge.

By writing these thoughts you will be writing advertisements about these concerns and products. Write your name and address on the backs of the sheets on which your ads are written and mail them to the Zain Ad-Writing Test, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. The names of the prize winners will be published each week.

Sink your sweet tooth in a luscious bit of Reymers' Candy and as its goodness trickles over your palate you will find yourself mentally saying "Um-m-m-m, that is good"—"it tastes like more." Grab your thoughts while you are thinking them and jot them down. Add a word here and there and you will find you have produced an ad that may prove a prize winner. To think good thoughts about a good product like Reymers' Candy is easy. To express your thoughts in words is just as easy.

Banking is a fascinating subject and you will be surprised at the many services a big, modern banking institution like the Union Savings Bank is prepared to render, and how extremely interesting they are. The Union Savings Bank will be glad to give you information on any or all of its departments, and with this information you will be surprised how easy a matter it is to write financial advertising.

You might, for instance, write ads about Dunlevy-Franklin's Pork Sausage—famous for 50 years. You would naturally describe its quality, freshness and "savory goodness" and emphasize the fact that it is made fresh every day and can be obtained in links, or the loose sausage meat. A better, more appetizing or more nourishing breakfast could not be planned for any day in the year. Dunlevy's pork sausage is all young pork, spiced and seasoned just right. Better try some for breakfast tomorrow and you'll have the right "taste appeal" for writing good ads.

Or take your fountain pen or pencil and a piece of paper and write an ad on the General Homes Corporation. Their motto for home building is to plan efficiently and economically, to construct faithfully and intelligently, and to exemplify character and integrity. An exemplification of this motto is presented to the public in their model home, 2439 Brighton Road, right on their home-building tract. By all means visit this property and get the real material for writing prize-winning ads.

Stock Market Buzz-Saw; Air Shares to Net Riches.

By B. C. FORBES

NO matter how distrustful one may be of the sensational ongoings, it would be foolhardy to attempt to buck the present stock market. It has proved full of opportunity for darting in and out at a profit. And there is no telling how much longer the giant bulls may maintain control.

It is unlikely that the Federal Reserve authorities will take any unnecessarily harsh steps to kill cheerfulness between now and the presidential election. Then, should the voting please finance, the market might easily be whooped up to still greater heights.

On the other hand, were the biggest bulls, for any reason, to decide to unload, the market could drop precipitately. The public usually are willing to follow the market, either up or down. Unquestionably the public have bought very extensively during the latest rise, which has carried average quotations to a new peak. If quotations were to collapse, the public undoubtedly would sell hurriedly and freely.

That the market will someday reverse its course is beyond all question.

OCTOBER 1 dividend and interest payments are always very large. This year they will be larger than ever before. The chances therefore are that Wall Street will encounter a spasm of still dearer money, especially call money. Whether this will have more than mild and passing effect on speculative stocks is open to question.

My own guess is that the highest money rates of the year will be experienced next month and that thereafter there will be some decline rather than the further rise generally predicted.

WALL STREET has become distinctly more air-minded. It is convinced that flying will increase more in the next two years than it has done in the last 20. Very influential financiers and financial houses that have heretofore held aloof are now becoming actively interested in getting into the game.

A titanic struggle for supremacy in aircraft building will be witnessed. The history of radio probably will be repeated; scores of plants will be started up, most of them will prosper for a while, production will be grossly overdone, the weaker ventures will go to the wall and a few strong ones will survive. Whether the kingpins ultimately will prove to be General Motors or Ford or one or two of the strictly aircraft companies already operating, only the future can tell. If one could foretell he could, by the investment of only a moderate sum, become independently wealthy. Watch developments closely.

THAT the Pacific will one day pass the Atlantic in activity is confidently prophesied. Already expansion of Pacific commerce is actively under way—only this week came the news that the Dollar Steamship people are building two new $7,000,000 ships for the Pacific trade. The next big expansion will come when China composes her internal difficulties and settles down earnestly to business.

This week stalwarts interested in furthering Pacific commerce have been holding the sixth annual convention of the Pacific Foreign Trade Council at Los Angeles. Among those taking part have been Henry M. Robinson, of Dawes commission fame; Robert Dollar, of San Francisco, and J. A. H. Kerr, of Los Angeles; F. B. Fowler, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce; Henry F. Grady, dean of commerce at California University; Judge MacDonald, chief of the Court of Appeals of Canada (principal speaker at the banquet), as well as other influential representatives from the Pacific coast, Canada and Hawaii.

The finest ship ever built in the United States is now plying between Hawaii and the Pacific coast. If you want an ideal holiday trip, go to Honolulu. It is really "different."

ON September 4, one American automobile company, Chevrolet, produced its millionth car since January 2. What other country in the world can hope to approach ours in mass production? Next year we should have two companies passing the million mark.

THE view voiced in this column that bumper crops at low prices are more conducive to prosperity than extremely light crops at very high prices is indorsed by the Wall Street Journal. It says, in the course of a long editorial:

"B. C. Forbes correctly draws the deduction that bumper crops, even at low prices, confer wide benefits, although the farmer may be embarrassed by his surplus. Short crops at high prices are something of a farmer's ideal, already with the presumption that his own crop is a good one. The reasoning is bad because the arithmetic is not sound. If a short crop meant that all farmers had 75 per cent of average, salable at twice the price of previous crop, the wisdom of combination to restrict production would be largely proved. But that is not what happens when the crop is short."

IT'S a dry enough campaign thus far.

STOCK MARKET PRICES TREND UPWARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—Prices generally displayed an upward tendency at the opening of the stock market today. Advances of 1 to 1½ points were shown by Packard Motors, American Can, Greene Cananea Copper, Radio and Pan-American B. General Motors opened a quarter-point lower and then slumped a full point to 217, indicating that the recent sensational rise in the stock discounted President Sloan's statement of yesterday regarding record earnings. Montgomery Ward opened down 2 points.

Traders apparently accepted President Sloan's statement that the prosperity of the automotive industry reflected that of industry generally, the arrival of funds from out of town for the call money market and what little trade news developed over night as bullish news.

Buying spread throughout the list, with turnovers especially large in metals, oils and motor accessories. New peak prices for the year or longer were established in the first half hour by Anaconda at 82, Chrysler 111¾, Murray Corporation 85¼, Kelsey Hayes Wheel 48¼, Atlantic Refining 185 and Eisenlohr and Brothers 30.

The initial transaction in International Combustion Engineering was the purchase of 15,000 shares at 70, after which the stock moved to 71, up about 2½ points. Purchases of 5,000 to 6,000-share blocks were made in Cerro de Pasco, Kennecott Copper, Philips Petroleum and Kelsey Hayes Wheel.

Houston Oil moved up 4 points and Cerro de Pasco, Warner Brothers Pictures A, Collins & Aikman, Purity Bakery, Kelsey Hayes Wheel and Commercial Solvents slightly more than 2 points each. Gains of 1 to 2 points were shown by Chrysler, Hudson, Murray Corporation, Stewart Warner, General Asphalt, Mexican Seaboard Oil, Atlantic Refining, American Smelting, Wright Aero, Freeport Texas and St. Louis Southwestern.

A few stocks were heavy with General Motors, among them International Nickel, Timken Roller Bearing and Kroger Grocery.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with sterling cables quoted at $4.85, unchanged.

NEWS AND VIEWS

GMO Splitup Coming.

Earnings of General Motors Corporation for the first nine months of 1928 will exceed those of the entire year 1927, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr. president said last night on sailing to visit the corporation's foreign subsidiaries in Europe. Readjustment of the corporation's capital structure through a stock dividend and an increase in the dividend rate may possibly be made at the directors' meeting in November, he suggested, but added that nothing has been determined or seriously discussed as yet, and the matter probably will not be given attention for another month. Mr. Sloan said "retail sales of all important manufacturers in the automotive industry have continued through the summer at an exceptionally good rate. In view of the above, it is very evident that there is reflected a general state of prosperity for industry in general since practically all sections of the country are contributing to the general result." There is an impression in the Street that the General Motors splitup will be on a three-for-one, possibly four-for-one, basis.

Record Accessory Business.

The automotive parts and accessory business in August had the greatest month in its history the Motor and Accessory Manufacturers' Association reports. While car and truck manufacturers were setting a new monthly record, makers of motors, bodies and other original equipment naturally were operating at high levels. They fell a little short of their March record, but exceptionally large August volume in service parts, accessory and service equipment, brought factory shipments for the parts industry generally to a point never before reached.

Weather Conditions.

High barometer still covers much the greater portion of the country, and clear skies and moderately cool weather predominates. The crest of the high covers the Rocky Mountain states and the Plains states, and a ridge of high pressure projects northeastward from the southern plains over the Ohio Valley states to New England. Light frost is reported at Pueblo with a temperature of 40 degrees, and at Toledo with a temperature of 46 degrees.

A rather weak low is centered over the Lake Superior section, causing some cloudiness and scattered light rains. Another disturbance is active in Southern Texas, causing cloudy weather over the Gulf states and heavy rains over Southern Texas.

River Conditions.

There was a slight rise in the Monongahela River due to the rains at the headwaters, but the Allegheny remained stationary. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.0 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.7, and Dam No. 6, 8.2 feet. The dams are up.

QUIET WEEK-END SESSION IN LOCAL STOCK MARKET

QUOTATIONS HOLD FIRM IN OIL AND GLASS LIST

The week closed quietly on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, with volume of trading showing a decrease from the week's average, but with prices in the general list holding close to the best levels of recent trading.

Lone Star Gas was quiet and practically unchanged, while Arkansas Gas, while a little more active than Lone Star, was handled at substantially the same prices prevailing yesterday. Neither issue appeared to be influenced by the strength in the oil and gas stocks in the New York market. On the "big board" Atlantic Refining was the outstanding issue in the oil division, soaring into new high ground with the shorts scrambling to cover their commitments as the Street heard rumors of a pending demonstration against the bears in the issue.

The glass stocks here were quiet, but prices were firm. Bidders were willing to pay last night's prices for stocks, but only a light supply was available. The latest advance in Window Glass prices, announced yesterday by the American Window Glass Company, was the third upward adjustment of selling prices within the last five months, but the action had been discounted, apparently, by the previous advances in glass company shares. The raise in prices reflects the decidedly healthier conditions in this branch of the flat glass industry as compared with the situation existing a year ago when the glass market was weaker than it had been for years and even the best companies were passing or curtailing dividends.

Blaw Knox was quiet and lower, although there was not much stock available at the 120 figure at which the stock changed hands during the second hour. Near the close of the market Lone Star Gas developed further strength and moved to above 57, the best prices since last spring.

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

Recent Oil Depression Reflected in Pittsburgh Steel Profits—Company's Financial Condition Good.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE depressed condition in the oil fields was reflected in the annual report of the Pittsburgh Steel Company for its fiscal year ended June 30, 1928. A large share of the company's output consists of seamless steel tubing. The oil fields constitute one of the greatest markets for this product. Overproduction of crude oil and the halting of drilling operations caused an abrupt slump in the buying of pipe early last year.

NET income after taxes, depreciation, depletion, interest and other charges for the fiscal year was $1,342,141. After deducting dividends on the $10,475,000 of 7 per cent preferred stock this was equivalent to $2.40 a share on the 253,500 shares of common stock. In the previous fiscal year $1,951,957 or $4.80 a share was earned. That year also reflected the slump in oil field buying to some extent. It was less than in the year ended June 30, 1926, when $2,533,577 or $7.10 was reported.

IN ADDITION to producing pipe the Pittsburgh Steel Company is an important maker of wire, nails and woven wire products. It is a fully integrated steel producer. Operations extend from the production of iron ore and coal to the manufacture of its numerous highly finished steel products.

THREE years ago the company was faced with the problem of having greater steel producing capacity than its finishing mills were able to handle. The sale of semi-finished steel was unsatisfactory so an extensive improvement program was started to bring finishing capacity into line with the steel producing capacity.

ON September 1, 1925 the Pittsburgh Steel Products Company was purchased from interests closely connected with the management of the Pittsburgh Steel Company. The newly acquired company was a manufacturer of seamless tubing, with a plant located close to Pittsburgh Steel's works.

ADDITIONAL pipe mills were also constructed. During the year ended June 30, 1927, $2,221,310 was spent for additions to plant facilities. This construction program was practically completed by the end of that year. Expenditures for improvements in the last fiscal year amounted to only $828,056.

THE coming year will probably see further heavy expeditures made to round out mill operating equipment. A special fund of $2,100,000, out of the proceeds of the sale of an issue of $11,000,000 of 6 per cent 20-year debenture bonds, was set aside for the construction of a modern steam plant, an additional electric generating turbine, and partial electrification of mills. These changes will effect economies in manufacture and will increase the range of products.

PLANTS are being kept in excellent condition. During the year $2,862,002 was spent for maintenance, repairs and replacements. Liberal charges were also made for depreciation and depletion. Depreciation of $1,490,672 alone was charged from earnings. This exceeded the net income. Depletion amounted to $120,486.

THE sale of the new bond issue provided for the retirement of $5,047,800 of funded debt outstanding at the close of the previous year. It also vastly improved the company's current financial position.

THE balance sheet of June 30 showed current assets of $17,278,938 against current liabilities of only $1,929,442. Cash amounted to $2,359,299. This was in addition to the special cash reserve for improvements which was not included in current assets.

THE outlook for Pittsburgh Steel Company in the future is fairly good. The worst has been passed in the oil industry. The large investments in physical properties may be expected to be shown in future earnings.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 7 to 16 points on a continuation of yesterday's buying movement, stimulated by relatively steady cables and apprehensions that rains in Southwest Texas would lower the grade of cotton and retard the movement.

The initial advance met extensive week-end realizing and a little southern selling, but offerings were readily absorbed, brokers reporting a broadening of demand as prices sold up to 18.43c for December and 18.34c for March, or about 16 to 20 points above yesterday's closing quotations.

Private cables said Bombay had been buying on the settlement of the strike there, and that there had also been covering and calling in the Liverpool market.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 52,000 bales, against 98,000 last year.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 22.—Cotton—Spot quiet; prices higher; American strict good middling, 10.82d; good middling, 10.57d; strict middling, 10.47d; middling, 10.32d; strict low middling, 10.12d; low middling, 9.92d; strict good ordinary, 9.72d; good ordinary, 9.42d. Sales 4,000 bales, including 2,600 American. No receipts. Futures closed barely steady: September, 9.74d; October, 9.59d; January, 9.49d; March, 9.53d; May, 9.55d; July, 9.54d.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

ONCE again dancers of Pittsburgh, as well as from coast-to-coast, will tread the light fantastic when the Lucky Strike Hour is broadcast over the nationwide chain, including WCAE, tonight at 10 o'clock. Consisting entirely of dance music, this regular weekly feature will present "The Hunes that Made Broadway Broadway," interspersed with old favorites that will invite all who hear them to dance to their rhythm. The complete program follows:

"This is My Lucky Day," "The Jazz Patrol," "Ten Years Ago Today," "On the Crest of a Wave," George White's Scandals; "An American Tune," George White's Scandals; "What D'ye Say," George White's Scandals; "Waltz Revue," Herbert; Polly Primrose," "When Sweet Susie Goes Steppin' By," "Ready for the River," "My Memories of France," "When the Harvest Moon is Shining," "Rag Doll," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "This is My Lucky Day."

Featured on the KDKA program today will be the return of Elbert R. Moses to broadcasting, at 7:45 o'clock to resume his series of lectures "Gems of American Literature," which he started several months ago.

The first in a series of three addresses by officials of Carnegie Institute of Technology will be given this evening through KDKA at 7:15 o'clock. The speaker will be Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president. The subject of Dr. Baker's address will be "The Perils and Profits of Research."

Don Bestor and his popular dance orchestra will present his initial program today at the William Penn Hotel. The dinner music from 6:30 to 7 o'clock, presented by Bestor and his musicians, will be sent broadcast by Station KDKA.

Tonight at 7 o'clock over WCAE the Strollers will stage "Brains," a one-act play, under the direction of Mae Sweeney. It is the tragic story of two unscrupulous adventurers who set out to find some buried Spanish treasure. One of the men, a Scotchman, prides himself on his brains, hoping to outwit the crafty sea captain. In this he fails, and the two men are left alone upon one of the South Sea Islands with nothing to quench a tropical thirst but a keg of water which has been filled with salt by the brainier captain. The parts are interpreted by Vincent Griffin, Robert Wilson and Claude Morris.

GIFTS AWARDED AS SCHOOL CLOSES

Cleo Mayfield, musical comedy stars, on the stage.

PREACHES, PRACTICES

After her lectures Mrs. Crabtree turned to the task of making the kitchen and the cooking stove interesting. She demonstrated many new and palatable recipes, mixing the ingredients before the eyes of the audiences.

And all the while she talked, entertainingly, about the recipe in hand or dropped invaluable hints for the home maker.

Now and then she would inject a laugh, as when she said, while beating cake batter: "If I had as much strength in my wrist as I have in my tongue, I'd be a famous cake maker."

A notable thing about Mrs. Crabtree—she sees romance in a cooking stove, a mixing bowl and a can of baking powder. And more than that, she can make other people see it also.

Getting back to her night lecture, here are some pertinent thoughts that she left with the audience:

"A woman who says she has no time to do this or that is a poor worker.

"Play with your children; be one of them; keep young with them.

"And to the men, I say, may the day soon come when you will equip your wives' kitchens with as up-to-date facilities as those you have in your offices.

"Modern woman needs a large kitchen with a pleasant outlook. In some of the new homes the kitchen is in the front of the house. Why not? Women like to see what's going on. But remember, seeing what's going on and talking about it are two different things."

At one time during the lecture Mrs. Crabtree complained that the men in Pittsburgh monopolize the newspaper. She said that in the morning the man takes it with him from the home and in the evening keeps it for himself. Then she declared:

"But in 'a new day' there will be delivered two Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraphs to every home in this district."

WHEN COOING STOPS

In her afternoon lecture, "Juggling the Income," Mrs. Crabtree contended that "budgeting is just applying business methods to your home." She said a budget brought joy into life and made for happy families, adding:

"The cooing will stop with the honeymoon, but the billing will go on forever—that is, if you don't have a budget."

Among the things she stressed while "juggling the income" were:

"Teach children to be wise spenders—it is much more important to know how to spend wisely than to know how to save wisely.

"Include flowers in your budget. They are not an extravagance. It is good to cater to the better self once in a while with flowers and music.

"Economy is not a matter of price, but a matter of value. It pays to buy good quality in anything you purchase."

Concluding her budget lecture, Mrs. Crabtree asserted: "Co-operation is needed if a budget system is to be a success—the entire family must be in harmony with the plan."

Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, president of the Congress of Women's Clubs, which sponsored The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Cooking School, introduced Mrs. Crabtree to last night's audience. Mrs. H. W. Stark, president of the Outlook Alliance, introduced the lecturer in the afternoon.

USHERS HELP

Ushers last night included these members of the Girls' Auxiliary of the Woman's Club of Ingram: Miss Gretchen Welsh, Miss Virginia Welsh, Miss Virginia Tufts, Miss Ruth Hamilton, Miss Jane Mitchell, Miss Mildred Mitchell, Miss Idamay Rawlins, Miss Helen Dittmar, Miss Betty Creese, Miss Elizabeth Aiken, Mrs. W. P. Hackney. Afternoon ushers included these members of the Crafton Juniors of the Woman's Club of Crafton: Mrs. W. S. Bowser, Mrs. G. H. Baskerville, Mrs. Darwin Carrell, Mrs. Stanley Malone, Mrs. A. A. Hauck, Mrs. Ernest Ziel, Mrs. M. B. Weinrich, Mrs. William McGhee, Miss Katherine Walker, Mrs. Finley Weisenberger, president.

Mrs. George A. Wise served as chairman of hostesses at the afternoon session.

The cooking school proved a great success if the many favorable comments heard among the audience last night are a criterion. There was praise for Mrs. Crabtree, praise for the Congress of Women's Clubs, praise for the various stores and manufacturing companies that cooperated, praise for the nurses who kept babies happy while mothers attended the school, and praise for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

A number of little sidelights that lent variety to the day's sessions were noted. When the gifts were being announced at the close of the afternoon meeting one of the names called was that of Sam Frazier. The women laughed when a man's name was read as winner of one of the women's cooking school gifts. But when they saw who the man was, the laughter changed to applause. Sam Frazier is one of the custodians at Memorial Hall. The aged veteran registered as a member of the school upon urgings of school hostesses. His gift was the prize upside-down cake, which was baked as part of the cooking demonstration.

CAN'T PRAISE IT ENOUGH

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her So Much

Kingston, Mo.—"I have not taken anything but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for 18 months and I cannot praise it enough. I weighed about 100 pounds and was not able to do any kind of work. My housework was done by my mother and my out-of-doors work was not done. I have taken four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and now I am well and strong and feel fine. I got my sister-in-law to take it after her last baby came and she is stronger now. I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. HATTIE V. EASTEN, R. 1, Kingston, Missouri.

JUDGE PORTER, DEM., OUT AGAINST SMITH

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 22.—William E. Porter, formerly elected as judge of Lawrence county as a Democrat, once a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, and now a member of the Democratic State Committee from Lawrence county, in an address before the Lawrence County W. C. T. U., declared he would not support the candidacy of Gov. Al Smith for president. His reasons, he said, were because Smith is wet, he does not stand upon the national Democratic platform, and is affiliated with Tammany Hall.

If Mayor Had Courage He Would Oust Verona

ALDERMAN JOHN J. VERONA, of the Third Ward, also one of Mayor Kline's police magistrates, capped the factional fight in the local political machine that has resulted in a series of comic opera arrests of several law enforcement officers and others by making sweeping charges of graft against Pittsburgh police. He spared none, saying, according to published report, "They (dive keepers) are protected by the highest officials of the city, from the police officials down to the lowly patrolman."

Undoubtedly Verona will be "fired" by the Mayor. That is, he will be relieved of his office of police magistrate. But he will still be alderman of the Third Ward, and, what is evidently more significant to the Mayor, will still be "boss" of the Hill politically. That significance was reflected in the Mayor's indecision about letting Verona out.

Were our Mayor a man of real fibre and character he would have fired Verona long ago, regardless of political results. Were he not more concerned about the smooth operation of "gang" politics than he is about the reputation of his administration he would have at least chopped off Verona's head as soon as Verona exploded after being called into conference with "his honor" and told that he had better be a good boy. If Verona is quoted correctly he insulted the Mayor. That is, he said things that would be considered an insult by a man of firmness, even though they were true, and we do not doubt they have a great deal of the substance of verity, although they are unsupported charges of a man of typical machine politics stripe, striking to defend himself.

It is high time there were a cleansing of Pittsburgh's municipal house. Hesitancy on the part of Pittsburgh city officials to take a firm and decided stand in the face of long-standing complaints of good citizens and recent revelations as to vice, gambling and bootlegging, leave only one possible deduction. The house cleaning must be done by some other agency. It is a big opportunity for our district attorney to make himself a really big man.

In the process of cleaning up protected, graft-yielding vice, the public is not desirous of exposing one set of cheap politicians and leaving others just as bad in their places. The public at large is no champion of Verona. It is aware of his political antecedents and his affiliations with the Max Leslie machine. It is not concerned in any "vindication" that might be of political import to the "gang," but it is concerned in cleaning up a situation that disgusts decent citizens and it wants Mr. Verona's Hill district cleaned as well as other parts of the city.

The public welcomes the falling out of politicians of the peanut variety as a distinct opportunity. With no leanings toward either faction, but hostility toward all forces of evil, it finds itself in the position of taking advantage of a situation growing out of a vicious condition.

Both Verona and the Mayor have done the public a good service. They have revealed just exactly the kind of base politics that reaches into our public offices, high and low.

Vote Machine Indorsed By Philadelphia Mayor

Mayor Mackey, of Philadelphia, has stated that he is in favor of the constitutional amendment which will permit the use of voting machines in Pennsylvania. In an address, Mayor Mackey said "It is a gesture for decency and I'm for it. I am willing to try anything to help the sanctity of the ballot box."

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph congratulates Philadelphia's chief executive. It hopes he will be an aid in getting the political powers of Philadelphia county to indorse the amendment, as it has been indorsed by the political organization of Alleghany county.

Meanwhile, in the interest in the presidential campaign, let voters not forget the voting machine amendment. Let them have it on their minds now and they are not likely to overlook it on election day. There are several amendments to be voted for as well as officers. Important among them are the voting machine amendment and the one permitting a Metropolitan charter for Pittsburgh.

Remember both of them.

Europe a Wise Spider

Uncle Sam, the Fly.

"The big powers will invite the United States to a debt parley," in other words, "Will you walk into my parlor, said the spider to the fly."

Let us hope that Uncle Sam will be "fly" in the American slang sense of the word. But he WON'T.

The Germans want French troops to quit the Rhineland. France wants her German indemnity in solid cash, and a perfectly l-o-v-e-l-y scheme has been devised.

The Germans will print bonds. America will buy them for cash; France will get the cash, and, maybe after a while, if Germany is good, French troops will leave the Rhine.

And we shall "hold the bag," with nice waste paper in it, if anything goes wrong with the bonds.

Europe says that Germany might NOT repudiate those bonds in the next war. But even if she did repudiate them, we ought to be so happy about those Frenchmen leaving the Rhineland as not to care.

Sometimes Europe calls Uncle Sam a Shylock, and ALL the time it takes our Government for a fool. Europe may be right about the fool part.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

The Sun's Trouble

THE mightiest sufferer in the solar system is its head and center, the sun. The sun is a sick star—but, let me hasten to say, not very sick. His case is mild, so far. How bad it may become in the remote future no astronomer is able to say. This sun malady appears to be universal among the stars, and probably it is an inevitable attendant of stellar life, the worm in the bud which conquers at last.

The sun is now passing through one of its long paroxysms, technically called a sunspot maximum. The sunspots are among the most extraordinary-looking objects revealed by the telescope (a distinguished surgeon once said to me upon seeing a sunspot for the first time: "Why, it looks like a sarcoma.") During a maximum disturbance sometimes as many as a hundred spots may be visible at once, usually collected in conspicuous groups and trains. At minimum, on the contrary, the sun's face often remains spotless for days at a time.

The spots are like pathological signs by which the changing phases of the sun's great malady can be followed. It is periodical, like a fever. Generally speaking, a little over 11 years separate the maxima, the highest points of the inflammation, but the period is variable to the extent of two or three years.

It is a thrilling thing to watch the convulsions of this great nearby star, upon whose vital regularity and soundness the earth absolutely depends as a world of life. When one of its fits comes on, all of the planets, which may be truly described as its children, feel, more or less, the repercussion. The earth being relatively near experiences fluctuations of temperature, climate, electric state, the precise extent, and the consequences of which have not yet been fully worked out. The violent alternations of high and low temperature, and of wet and dry spells, experienced during a few years past, may probably be ascribed to the influence not of sunspots, which themselves are mere pathologic indicia, but of the great internal trouble from which the sun suffers, but which in his case is trifling compared with the development that it has apparently attained in many of its fellow stars.

The elaborate investigations instituted by Dr. George E. Hale, the first director of the Mount Wilson Observatory, have resulted in a theory of the cause and nature of sunspots, which appear to be primarily due to some electro-magnetic action occurring deep in the body of the sun.

Of the nature of this cause another authority says: "We can form but the vague conception that it is a gathering of deep-lying forces during an outward period of quiescence, followed by an outburst which relieves the internal strain.

"On this theory the irregularity of the intervals and the intensity of the successive outbreaks are not at all surprising. It seems also natural enough that the most violent disturbances should develop the most rapidly, as is observed to be the case."

All this suggests a superficial resemblance to the intermittent eruptions of geysers, and the more or less periodical activity of volcanoes. But the likeness does not go very far. We see the sun, a gigantic globe of compressed and intensely heated gases, subjected to a mysterious internal disturbance, manifesting itself by an eruption of black spots, funnel-shaped vortexes, Hale calls them, which after a period of quiet, break out simultaneously, say 200,000 miles on each side of the sun's equatorial belt, and gradually draw in from both sides toward the equator, the disturbance increasing for several years and then quieting down and vanishing before the zones of spots actually meet at the equator. Thereupon the sun is relieved and the electric pulses that he sends to the earth during the period of strain, filling our skies with auroral lights, are felt no more until another maximum of disturbance begins.

Here's Your Hat!

A NEW YORK merchant who came to America penniless 11 years ago and now owns $500,000 in cash and property, asserts that ours is a rotten country, governed by rotten laws. He threatens—or rather promises—to return to Russia where men have some rights.

It is to be hoped he will not change his mind. It is too bad that he did not remain in Europe 11 years ago. The World War was in its last frightful year then and Russia was writhing in revolution. Endless opportunity was spread for patriotic service by those willing to remain there—but, of course, a man could not make $500,000 out of it.

Others Have Ideas, Too

HAVEN'T you too much faith in your own judgment?

As a result are you not losing many opportunities to learn profitably?

Perhaps you are blinded by the fact that you do possess unusual skill or ability, so that you give little consideration to what others have to offer.

And you may have been fairly successful in your line, at that. But success does not indicate that it is wholly due to your own ability.

Perhaps you have been fortunate in having weak opposition.

If you had had a worthy foe or rival in your business, things might have been much harder for you and you would have less conceit.

If you are putting your judgment against all those by whom you are surrounded, you cannot be as big as you think.

The biggest business man and the most successful business house in the country does not turn down a suggestion or the work of another without giving it full consideration.

Employes give more thought and do better work where their ideas are given some attention, and, no matter how menial a man's job, he likes to feel that his ideas are at least worth a welcome reception.

Wishes

I WOULD go drifting
  Down a wide stream,
Lighted by tender
  Starshine's faint gleam.

I would lie quiet,
  There in the bow,
Hearing sweet voices
  From far below.

I would see only
  Starlight above,
I would feel only
  The small waves move.

Drifting and dreaming
  The whole night through,
Down the dark river,
  Dreaming of you.

I would see only
  Faint stars above,
I would know only
  Rapture of love.

Great Passages from the Bible

"Behold, What Manner of Love"

(I. John 3; 1-10)

BEHOLD, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God: therefore the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not.

Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is.

And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.

Whosoever committeth sin transgresseth also the law: for sin is the transgression of the law.

And ye know that he was manifested to take away our sins; and in him is no sin.

Whosoever abideth in him sinneth not: whosoever sinneth hath not seen him, neither known him.

Little children, let no man deceive you: he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous.

He that committeth sin is of the devil; for the devil sinneth from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil.

Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the devil: whosoever doeth not righteousness is not of God, neither he that loveth not his brother.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THE bright daughter of the Whop family was doing fine in domestic science classes at school, and she thought she'd get herself ready to teach cookery. So her dad says to her mother one night, "Don't you think Joy is making a terrible mistake studying that there cooking at school?"

"No. I'm satisfied with the results."

"Results me eye! Don't we have to give everything she cooks to the tramps and the neighbors' cats and dogs?"

"Yes, but tramps almost quit calling here, and the neighbors' dogs and cats that used to tramp down our garden have almost all disappeared. I'm for the cooking school, if you ask me."

OLD MacTavish was not a mean man. No, he just knew the value of money.

So when old MacTavish developed a sore throat he meditated fearfully upon the expenditure of a doctor's fee. As an alternative he hung about for a day and a half outside the local doctor's establishment. Finally, he managed to catch the great man.

"Say, doctor, hoo's beezness wi' ye the noo?"

"Oh, fair, fair."

"I s'pose ye've a deal o' prescribin' tae dae fer coolds an' sair throats?"

"Ay."

"An' what dae ye gin'rally gi'e for a sair throat?"

"Naethin'," replied the canny old doctor. "I dinna want a sair throat."

JEAN'S sweetheart, a very careful Scot, took her out one afternoon for a long walk in the country.

They came home by train, and the girl's mother noticed that her daughter was in a bad temper. It appeared that Jean had badly wanted a cup of tea but did not get one.

When next the young man appeared Jean sarcastically proffered the money he had spent on her train fare.

"Och, that's all right," said the youth, pocketing the coin, "ye needna ha'e hurried. Saturday wad ha'e been time enough."

San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—The San Franciscan is a home boy. He putters about his roses and trails the lawn mower. The dank, sunless flat is unknown. Everybody has a patch of green and a jerk of flowers. The appearance of poverty is an unknown quantity. Even the humblest cottage is marked by flaming vines and sweet smelling shrubs.

Due to a fairly even climate, gardens and landscape plantings furnish the kaleidoscopic coloring of a gypsy's scarf. Homes in Berkeley and Delmonte are as fine as those on Long Island. And they offer an architectural distinctiveness—a Belasco setting come to life.

Such structural conceptions are seen nowhere else in America save in California or perhaps on the movie screen. There are villas with cool, winding palm lined roadways, castles with terraced loveliness and exquisite chateaux perched on dizzy cliffs with the blue of the Pacific sparkling below.

In San Francisco and in Oakland across the bay are those inviting and velvety lawns glistening in a dewy splendor. As well as patios, rose bowered tea gardens, fountain studded parterres, sweeps of hillside terraces and other creative efforts that distinguish a home loving city.

In such atmosphere people naturally live more leisurely. The galloping tempo of the eastern city is missing. The successful merchant may breakfast in flannels, with a fresh rose in his lapel, on an umbrella shaded portico. Japanese and Chinese servants stand about in white duck. Like a music show.

Speed and lack of time make New York a city of cigaret smokers—a few quick inhalations and they flip it away. Out here men have time to luxuriate in the aroma of a big fat he cigar. Luncheon is not a mad bolt and a frantic rush back to the office.

This easy manner fascinates a fidgety New Yorker. He begins to pity Broadway and its ant-like scurry. People have a little time for the outdoors each day. On the city's ocean front is an eight-mile line of cliffs and beach. They are never deserted. Indeed the city seems always at play yet it does its work.

San Francisco is ever shopping. Each day is like Saturday in the average American city. Women wear chiefly sport togs and organdies, but furs are handy in case one of those stealthy, creeping fogs decides to be nasty. On each corner is the splash of a colorful flower shop. Art and book stores are spacious and filled with tip-toeing "browsers." The policemen run to the popular idea—thick set Irishmen with ruddy cheeks and a "Begorrah!" brogue. Ireland is well represented all over town.

The Wall Street flavor is observed in the banks and exchanges of California and Montgomery streets. Foreign trade and insurance offices—it is the Hartford of the Far West—are on Pine street.

My first view of seals disporting on native rocks was here. Acres of them wet and glistening in the sun paddled awkwardly about, trumpeting primeval arias and barking hoarsely. With a sudden rush of the leader—whose profile recalled W. C. Fields—all slid off into the ocean, coming back again quickly to do it all over again. Many seemed conscious of being on display and cut many amusing capers. If there is anything as silly looking as a penguin or a seal I have never seen it and I have been attending political conventions for years.

Lighthouses offer a somber touch in San Francisco's song of seduction. At night their shafts of light and dolorous bells provide a distinct marine charm. San Francisco's harbor, so often wrapped in fog and mist, requires a ceaseless lighthouse vigilance. Here, indeed, lighthouse keeping is romantic.

* * *

A city such as this is difficult to leave. It has a bewitching serenity that calls you back. San Francisco is made up largely of those visitors who came for a few days' visit and those days have stretched into endless years. And so, paraphrasing Mr. Berlin's ditty, the visit is ended, but the memory lingers on. And aren't you glad?

The Postage Stamp

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

A recent writer points out that we may learn something from postage stamp.

How many useful lessons we can all learn from the humble postage stamp!

One thing it teaches us is that the first step in its usefulness is that it needs a good licking. We learn more from our mistakes than from our successes. Many a man looks back upon his first failure as giving him the greatest incentive for success. Those who start out in their career by being unceremoniously kicked out into the world and tossed upon their own resources are apt to go farther than those endowed and petted darlings who have the way made easy for them.

And then the stamp must be pounded and smeared with ink and must mingle with many similar associates before it arrives at its destination. Without considerable hardship it is of no value. A stamp that has not been properly licked drops off immediately and does not carry the letter to its goal.

The good stamp stays put even in dark and unpleasant times and over great distances.

When we are tempted to drop out at the start, or give up, before we have made good let us think of the postage stamp and the licking and abuse it must receive before it delivers the goods.

Many a man gives up because of the difficulties that surround him. He often gives up when success is just around the corner. There is virtue in hanging on even when all things seem against us.

How many instances there are of men who have been apparently defeated and yet have succeeded in building success on the ruins of failure!

Nothing a young person needs to learn is of so much importance as the value of going on. What if you were blind like Huber, or deaf like Beethoven, or you have lost your fortune, or have been betrayed by friends? Keep on. For fortune is a fickle jade and gives away at last to those who flout her.

This world is so wide you can always go somewhere else, and is so full of opportunities that when one fails you can try another one.

Remember that a continual dropping wears away the stone, and that nothing is impossible to the spirit of man. We can only be defeated by ourselves. The only failure is the one whose inner light has failed.

When the Lacedemonian was told by the Persians that the arrows of the Persians would darken the sky because of their number he replied: "Then we will fight in the dark."

"YOU know," said pretty Mrs. Rodney Boone, "they say if you just concentrate on a thing eventually you get it. But a friend of mine told me the other day that she wanted a fur coat. She concentrated for weeks, and then someone gave her an Angora cat!"

A lady wheeled her baby carriage into a grocery store in San Francisco. While she was looking over the vegetables, a lady came in with a beautiful collie dog.

The baby had one of these wooly little sweaters on, and the dog sniffed it.

"Oh, my! Take him away!" screamed the baby's mother.

"Oh, that's all right," said the dog owner, with a pathetic lack of tact, "the dog thinks it's a puppy."

The mother didn't say anything, but it is fortunate looks can't kill.

The ladies are using skunks for pets. Deodorized ones, of course. The fact was being discussed at tea by a number of ladies who thought it would be fine to have one, and, of course, keep him hidden while desirable guests were about. But when unwelcome relatives or bores came, to have someone turn him loose.

And it's not such a bad idea. Skunk farms furnish them.

The morning paper carried this headline: "Chang bids his 28 wives farewell, then goes to battle, breathing defiance."

A male person sent it in with this comment: "Why did he have to go to war?"

A Brooklyn firm advertises for "several young married women to work from 12 to 4 daily."

Despite the marriage or career controversy, it looks as if some industries prefer 'em wed.

They waste less time over their vanities when they are still hoping.

Whoever says that the younger generation of women is on the skids should go into fashionable restaurants in New York and see the white-haired women who might be grandmothers (perhaps are), hitting the pills with enthusiasm. They smoke cheap ones too.

Have you noticed the current coiffure? No, it isn't a paint brush, protruding from the back of the hat, it's the growing bob. It's a scream! I saw one yesterday, and tangled in the paint brush of new hair were a couple of long earrings with tiny what-you-may-call-'ems dangling all over them. A mess!

An Unbeatable Team

Our ability to sell keeps pace with our ability to make, and the combination insures prosperity.
